Homage to the Blessed One, the Worthy One, the fully Enlightened One

Pāḷi Workshop

Germany, 9-26 July 2026

"… Therefore, bhikkhus, you should train yourselves thus:
'When those discourses spoken by the Tathāgata that are deep, deep in meaning, supramundane, dealing with emptiness, are being recited, we will be eager to listen to them, will lend an ear to them, will apply our minds to understand them;
and we will think those teachings should be studied and mastered.'
Thus should you train yourselves."

"… tasmātiha, bhikkhave, evaṃ sikkhitabbaṃ:
'ye te suttantā tathāgata-bhāsitā, gambhīrā, gambhīr'atthā, lokuttarā, suññata-ppaṭisaṃyuttā, tesu bhaññamānesu sussūsissāma, sotaṃ odahissāma, aññā cittaṃ upaṭṭhāpessāma, te ca dhamme uggahetabbaṃ pariyāpuṇitabbaṃ maññissāmā'ti.
evañ hi vo, bhikkhave, sikkhitabban"ti

Note on Punctuation

I have frequently used hyphens [-] and apostrophes [‘] in editing the Pāḷi texts in this collection, hoping to make them easier to read. I followed these principles:

- Individual words in compounds are separated by [-], e.g., dhammavādī → dhamma-vādī.

- When changes in sound and letters occur due to the combination of words (sandhi), I preferred to use [’] with the first word, e.g., dhamma + anupassī would appear in an unedited text as dhammānupassī, and here as dhamm’ānupassī (not dhammā’nupassī).

    - An exception to this is when the change in the syllable accurately reflects the grammatical value of the first word, but not the second. In such cases, the apostrophe is placed before the second word, e.g., dhammo + amhi would appear in an unedited text as dhammomhi, and here as dhammo’mhi (not dhamm’omhi).

Note on Translations

- Unless otherwise indicated, all the sutta translations in this collection are by Ven. Bhikkhu Bodhi. With his permission, minor changes in terminology have been made in the passages cited.

- All translations of DN, Vin., Thig, and non-canonical texts, as well as the Dhammapada verses (Dhp), are by me, with the Dhp translations occasionally based on those of Acharya Buddharakkhita.

sīla, dāna & saddhā

And Other Wholesome Qualities

yo ca vassa-sataṃ jīve, dussīlo asamāhito. ek'āhaṃ jīvitaṃ seyyo, sīlavantassa jhāyino. Dhp 110	One may live a hundred years with no sīla and no samādhi. Better it is a single day of life for one who has sīla and meditates.
idha modati pecca modati, kata-puñño ubhayattha modati. so modati so pamodati, disvā kamma-visuddhim attano. Dhp 16	He rejoices here, he rejoices hereafter, one who does good rejoices in both places. He rejoices and is happy, recollecting his pure deeds.
idha nandati pecca nandati, kata-puñño ubhayattha nandati. "puññaṃ me katan"ti nandati, bhiyyo nandati suggatiṃ gato. Dhp 18	He is delighted here, he is delighted hereafter, one who does good is delighted in both places. [When thinking] "I have done good," he is delighted, when gone to a good destination, he is delighted even more.
sabbe tasanti daṇḍassa, sabbe bhāyanti maccuno. attānaṃ upamaṃ katvā, na haneyya na ghātaye. Dhp 129	All tremble at violence; all fear death. Seeing oneself in others, one would neither kill nor cause another to kill.
sabbe tasanti daṇḍassa, sabbesaṃ jīvitaṃ piyaṃ. attānaṃ upamaṃ katvā, na haneyya na ghātaye. Dhp 130	All tremble at violence; life is dear to all. Seeing oneself in others, one would neither kill nor cause another to kill.

sukhaṃ yāva jarā sīlaṃ, sukhā saddhā patiṭṭhitā, sukho paññāya paṭilābho, pāpānaṃ akaraṇaṃ sukhaṃ. Dhp 333	Happiness is virtue until life's end, happiness is confidence well established, happiness is the acquisition of wisdom, and happiness is the avoidance of wrongdoing.
mā'vamaññetha puññassa, "na maṃ taṃ āgamissati." uda-bindu-nipātena, uda-kumbho'pi pūrati. dhīro pūrati puññassa, thokaṃ thokam'pi ācinaṃ. Dhp 122	Do not underestimate the good, thinking: "This will not come to me". Drop by drop, the water pot becomes full. So too, the wise person fills himself with good, gathering it little by little.
sabba-pāpassa akaraṇaṃ, kusalassa upasampadā, sacitta-pariyodapanaṃ — etaṃ buddhāna sāsanaṃ. Dhp 183	The non-doing of all bad actions, the performance of the wholesome, and the purification of one's mind — this is the teaching of the Buddhas.

pañcasīlāni

The Five Precepts

pāṇ'ātipātā veramaṇī-sikkhā-padaṃ samādiyāmi.	I undertake the training precept of abstention from the killing of beings.
adinn'ādānā veramaṇī-sikkhā-padaṃ samādiyāmi.	I undertake the training precept of abstention from the taking of what is not given.
kāmesu micchā-cārā veramaṇī-sikkhā-padaṃ samādiyāmi.	I undertake the training precept of abstention from sexual misconduct.
musā-vādā veramaṇī-sikkhā-padaṃ samādiyāmi.	I undertake the training precept of abstention from false speech.
surā-meraya-majja-pamāda-ṭṭhānā veramaṇī-sikkhā-padaṃ samādiyāmi.	I undertake the training precept of abstention from alcohol and [other] intoxicants which are the basis for negligence.

Daily Morning Chanting

namo tassa bhagavato arahato sammā-sambuddhassa (3x)	Homage to the Blessed One, the Worthy One, the fully Enlightened One.
buddhaṃ saraṇaṃ gacchāmi; dhammaṃ saraṇaṃ gacchāmi; saṅghaṃ saraṇaṃ gacchāmi.	I go for refuge to the Buddha. I go for refuge to the Dhamma. I go for refuge to the Saṅgha.
imāya dhamm'ānudhamma-ppaṭipattiyā: buddhaṃ pūjemi; dhammaṃ pūjemi; saṅghaṃ pūjemi.	By practicing in accordance with the Dhamma: I venerate the Buddha; I venerate the Dhamma; I venerate the Saṅgha.

ye ca buddhā atītā ca, ye ca buddhā anāgatā, paccuppannā ca ye buddhā — ahaṃ vandāmi sabbadā.	The Buddhas of the past, The Buddhas of the future, The Buddhas of the present — I always pay respects.
ye ca dhammā atītā ca, ye ca dhammā anāgatā, paccuppannā ca ye dhammā — ahaṃ vandāmi sabbadā.	The Dhammas of the past, The Dhammas of the future, The Dhammas of the present — I always pay respects.
ye ca saṅghā atītā ca, ye ca saṅghā anāgatā, paccuppannā ca ye saṅghā — ahaṃ vandāmi sabbadā.	The Saṅghas of the past, The Saṅghas of the future, The Saṅghas of the present — I always pay respects.

Homage to the Triple Jem

iti'pi so bhagavā: arahaṃ, sammā-sambuddho, vijjā-caraṇa-sampanno, sugato, loka-vidū, anuttaro purisa-damma-sārathi, satthā deva-manussānaṃ, buddho, bhagavā'ti.	That Blessed One is an arahant, perfectly enlightened, accomplished in true knowledge and conduct, fortunate, knower of the world, unsurpassed leader of persons to be tamed, teacher of devas and humans, the Enlightened One, the Blessed One.
svākkhāto bhagavatā dhammo, sandiṭṭhiko, akāliko, ehi-passiko, opaneyyiko, paccattaṃ veditabbo viññūhī'ti.	The Dhamma is well expounded by the Blessed One, directly visible, immediate, inviting one to come and see, applicable, to be personally experienced by the wise.
suppaṭipanno bhagavato sāvaka-saṅgho, ujuppaṭipanno bhagavato sāvaka-saṅgho, ñāyappaṭipanno bhagavato sāvaka-saṅgho, sāmīcippaṭipanno bhagavato sāvaka-saṅgho. yadidaṃ cattāri purisa-yugāni, aṭṭha purisa-puggalā, esa bhagavato sāvaka-saṅgho, āhuneyyo, pāhuneyyo, dakkhiṇeyyo, añjali-karaṇīyo, anuttaraṃ puñña-kkhettaṃ lokassā'ti.	The Saṅgha of the Blessed One's disciples is practicing the good way, practicing the straight way, practicing the right way, practicing the proper way; that is, the four pairs of persons, the eight types of individuals—this Saṅgha of the Blessed One's disciples is worthy of gifts, worthy of hospitality, worthy of offerings, worthy of reverence, the unsurpassed field of merit for the world.

dhammaveda (AN 6.10 - excerpt)

Inspiration in the Dhamma

“yasmiṃ, mahānāma, samaye ariya-sāvako tathāgataṃ anussarati, n’ev’assa tasmiṃ samaye rāga-pariyuṭṭhitaṃ cittaṃ hoti, na dosa-pariyuṭṭhitaṃ cittaṃ hoti, na moha-pariyuṭṭhitaṃ cittaṃ hoti; uju-gatamev’assa tasmiṃ samaye cittaṃ hoti tathāgataṃ ārabbha.	“When a noble disciple recollects the Tathāgata, on that occasion his mind is not obsessed by craving, not obsessed by aversion, not obsessed by delusion; on that occasion his mind is simply straight, based on the Tathāgata.
uju-gata-citto kho pana, mahānāma, ariya-sāvako labhati attha-vedaṃ, labhati dhamma-vedaṃ, labhati dhamm’ūpasaṃhitaṃ pāmojjaṃ.	A noble disciple whose mind is straight gains inspiration in the meaning, gains inspiration in the Dhamma, gains joy connected with the Dhamma.
pamuditassa pīti jāyati, pīti-manassa kāyo passambhati, passaddha-kāyo sukhaṃ vediyati, sukhino cittaṃ samādhiyati.	When he is joyful, rapture arises. For one with a rapturous mind, the body becomes tranquil. One tranquil in body feels pleasure. For one feeling pleasure, the mind becomes concentrated.
ayaṃ vuccati, mahānāma: ‘ariya-sāvako visama-gatāya pajāya samappatto viharati, sabyāpajjāya pajāya abyāpajjo viharati, dhamma-sotaṃ samāpanno buddh’ānussatiṃ bhāveti.’	This is called a noble disciple who dwells in balance amid an unbalanced population, who dwells unafflicted amid an afflicted population. As one who has entered the stream of the Dhamma, he develops recollection of the Buddha.
puna caparaṃ, mahānāma, ariya-sāvako dhammaṃ anussarati: ‘svākkhāto bhagavatā dhammo … pe …’ saṅghaṃ anussarati: ‘suppaṭipanno … pe …’”	Again, Mahānāma, a noble disciple recollects the Dhamma thus: ‘The Dhamma is well expounded by the Blessed One…’ … recollects the Saṅgha thus: ‘The Saṅgha of the Blessed One’s disciples is practicing the good way…’”

anussaretha sambuddhaṃ

Recollect the Buddha

“arañña rukkha-mūle vā, suñ’āgār’eva bhikkhavo, anussaretha sambuddhaṃ, bhayaṃ tumhāka no siyā.	“In a forest, at the foot of a tree, or in an empty hut, O bhikkhus, you should recollect the Buddha — no fear will then arise in you.
no ce buddhaṃ sareyyātha, loka-jeṭṭhaṃ nar’āsabhaṃ, atha dhammaṃ sareyyātha, niyyānikaṃ, sudesitaṃ.	But if you cannot recall the Buddha, best in the world, the bull of men, then you should recall the Dhamma, emancipating, well expounded.
no ce dhammaṃ sareyyātha, niyyānikaṃ, sudesitaṃ, atha saṅghaṃ sareyyātha, puñña-kkhettaṃ anuttaraṃ.	But if you cannot recall the Dhamma, emancipating, well expounded, then you should recall the Saṅgha, the unsurpassed field of merit.
evaṃ buddhaṃ sarantānaṃ, dhammaṃ, saṅghañ ca bhikkhavo, bhayaṃ vā chambhitattaṃ vā, loma-haṃso na hessatī”ti. SN 11.3	For those who thus recall the Buddha, the Dhamma, and the Saṅgha, bhikkhus, no fear or trepidation will arise, nor will their hair stand on end.”

dhammassavana sutta (AN 5.202)

Listening to the Dhamma

“pañc’ime, bhikkhave, ānisaṃsā dhamma-ssavane. katame pañca? assutaṃ suṇāti; sutaṃ pariyodāpeti; kaṅkhaṃ vitarati; diṭṭhiṃ ujuṃ karoti; cittam assa pasīdati. ime kho, bhikkhave, pañca ānisaṃsā dhamma-ssavane”ti.	“Bhikkhus, there are these five benefits in listening to the Dhamma. What five? One hears what one has not heard; one clarifies what has been heard; one overcomes perplexity; one straightens out one’s view; one’s mind becomes bright, calm and confident. These are the five benefits in listening to the Dhamma.”

mahānāma sutta (SN 55.37)

ekaṃ samayaṃ bhagavā sakkesu viharati kapilavatthusmiṃ, nigrodh'ārāme. atha kho mahānāmo sakko yena bhagavā ten'upasaṅkami;	On one occasion the Blessed One was dwelling among the Sakyans at Kapilavatthu in Nigrodha's Park. Then Mahānāma the Sakyan approached the Blessed One, upasaṅkamitvā, bhagavantaṃ abhivādetvā, ekam antaṃ nisīdi. ekam antaṃ nisinno kho, mahānāmo sakko bhagavantaṃ etad avoca:	paid homage to him, sat down to one side, and said to him:
"kittāvatā nu kho, bhante, upāsako hotī"ti?	"Venerable sir, in what way is one a lay follower?"
"yato kho, mahānāma, buddhaṃ saraṇaṃ gato hoti, dhammaṃ saraṇaṃ gato hoti, saṅghaṃ saraṇaṃ gato hoti — ettāvatā kho, mahānāma, upāsako hotī"ti.	"When, Mahānāma, one has gone for refuge to the Buddha, the Dhamma, and the Saṅgha, one is then a lay follower."
"kittāvatā pana, bhante, upāsako sīla-sampanno hotī"ti?	"In what way, venerable sir, is a lay follower accomplished in virtue?"
"yato kho, mahānāma, upāsako pāṇ'ātipātā paṭivirato hoti, adinn'ādānā paṭivirato hoti, kāmesu micchā-cārā paṭivirato hoti, musā-vādā paṭivirato hoti, surā-meraya-majja-ppamāda-ṭṭhānā paṭivirato hoti — ettāvatā kho, mahānāma, upāsako sīla-sampanno hotī"ti.	"When, Mahānāma, a lay follower abstains from the destruction of life, from taking what is not given, from sexual misconduct, from false speech, and from wines, liquor, and intoxicants that are a basis for negligence, the lay follower is accomplished in virtue."
"kittāvatā pana, bhante, upāsako saddhā-sampanno hotī"ti?	"In what way, venerable sir, is a lay follower accomplished in devotion?"
"idha, mahānāma, upāsako saddho hoti, saddahati tathāgatassa bodhiṃ:	"Here, Mahānāma, a lay follower is devoted; he has confidence in the enlightenment of the Tathāgata thus:
'iti'pi so bhagavā: arahaṃ, sammā-sambuddho, vijjā-caraṇa-sampanno, sugato, loka-vidū,	'The Blessed One is an arahant, perfectly enlightened, accomplished in true knowledge and conduct, fortunate, knower of the world, anuttaro purisa-damma-sārathi, satthā deva-manussānaṃ, buddho, bhagavā'ti. ettāvatā kho, mahānāma, upāsako saddhā-sampanno hotī"ti.	unsurpassed trainer of persons to be tamed, teacher of devas and humans, the Enlightened One, the Blessed One.' In that way a lay follower is accomplished in devotion."

"kittāvatā pana, bhante, upāsako cāga-sampanno hotī"ti?	"In what way, venerable sir, is a lay follower accomplished in generosity?"
"idha, mahānāma, upāsako vigata-mala-maccherena cetasā agāraṃ ajjhāvasati. mutta-cāgo, payata-pāṇi, vossagga-rato, yāca-yogo, dāna-saṃvibhāga-rato — ettāvatā kho, mahānāma, upāsako cāga-sampanno hotī"ti.	"Here, Mahānāma, a lay follower dwells at home with a mind devoid of the stain of stinginess, freely generous, open-handed, delighting in relinquishment, one devoted to charity, delighting in giving and sharing. In that way a lay follower is accomplished in generosity."
"kittāvatā pana, bhante, upāsako paññā-sampanno hotī"ti?	"In what way, venerable sir, is a lay follower accomplished in wisdom?"
"idha, mahānāma, upāsako paññavā hoti. udaya'ttha-gāminiyā paññāya samannāgato, ariyāya, nibbedhikāya, sammā dukkha-kkhaya-gāminiyā — ettāvatā kho, mahānāma, upāsako paññā-sampanno hotī"ti.	"Here, Mahānāma, a lay follower is wise, he possesses wisdom directed to arising and passing away, which is noble and penetrative, leading to the complete destruction of dukkha. In that way a lay follower is accomplished in wisdom."

Great Gifts

"pañc'imāni, bhikkhave, dānāni, mahā-dānāni, aggañāni, rattañāni, vaṃsañāni, porāṇāni, asaṃkiṇṇāni, asaṃkiṇṇapubbāni, na saṃkiyanti na saṃkiyissanti, appaṭikuṭṭhāni samaṇehi brāhmaṇehi viññūhi.	"There are, bhikkhus, these five gifts, great gifts, primal, of long standing, traditional, ancient, unsullied and never before sullied, which are not being sullied, and will not be sullied, not rejected by wise ascetics and brahmins.

katamāni pañca? idha, bhikkhave, ariya-sāvako pāṇ'ātipātaṃ pahāya, pāṇ'ātipātā paṭivirato hoti. pāṇ'ātipātā paṭivirato, bhikkhave, ariya-sāvako aparimāṇānaṃ sattānaṃ abhayaṃ deti, averaṃ deti, abyābajjhaṃ deti.	What five? Here, a noble disciple, having abandoned the destruction of life, abstains from the destruction of life. By abstaining from the destruction of life, the noble disciple gives to an immeasurable number of beings freedom from fear, enmity, and affliction.
aparimāṇānaṃ sattānaṃ abhayaṃ datvā, averaṃ datvā, abyābajjhaṃ datvā, aparimāṇassa abhayassa averassa abyābajjhassa bhāgī hoti. idaṃ, bhikkhave, paṭhamaṃ dānaṃ mahā-dānaṃ ... pe ...	Having given to an immeasurable number of beings freedom from fear, enmity, and affliction, he himself in turn enjoys immeasurable freedom from fear, enmity, and affliction. This is the first gift, a great gift ...
puna caparaṃ, bhikkhave, ariya-sāvako adinn'ādānaṃ pahāya ... pe ... kāmesu micchā-cāraṃ pahāya ... pe ... musā-vādaṃ pahāya ... pe ... surā-meraya-majja-pamāda-ṭṭhānaṃ pahāya, surā-meraya-majja-pamāda-ṭṭhānaṃ paṭivirato hoti. surā-meraya-majja-pamāda-ṭṭhānaṃ paṭivirato, bhikkhave, ariya-sāvako aparimāṇānaṃ sattānaṃ abhayaṃ deti, averaṃ deti, abyābajjhaṃ deti.	Again, a noble disciple, having abandoned the taking of what is not given, abstains from taking what is not given … abstains from sexual misconduct … abstains from false speech … abstains from liquor, wine, and intoxicants, the basis for negligence. By abstaining from liquor, wine, and intoxicants, the basis for negligence, the noble disciple gives to an immeasurable number of beings freedom from fear, enmity, and affliction.
aparimāṇānaṃ sattānaṃ abhayaṃ datvā, averaṃ datvā, abyābajjhaṃ datvā, aparimāṇassa abhayassa averassa abyābajjhassa bhāgī hoti. idaṃ, bhikkhave, pañcamaṃ dānaṃ, mahā-dānaṃ, aggaññaṃ, rattaññaṃ, vaṃsaññaṃ, porāṇaṃ... asaṃkiṇṇaṃ, asaṃkiṇṇapubbaṃ, na saṃkiyati na saṃkiyissati, appaṭikuṭṭhaṃ samaṇehi brāhmaṇehi viññūhi." AN 8.39	He himself in turn enjoys immeasurable freedom from fear, enmity, and affliction. This is the fifth gift, a great gift, primal, of long standing, traditional, ancient, unadulterated and never before adulterated, which is not being adulterated and will not be adulterated, not rejected by wise ascetics and brahmins."

sakkā (AN 2.19)

Possible

“akusalaṃ, bhikkhave, pajahatha. sakkā, bhikkhave, akusalaṃ pajahituṃ.	“Bhikkhus, abandon the unwholesome! It is possible to abandon the unwholesome.
no ce’daṃ, bhikkhave, sakkā abhavissa akusalaṃ pajahituṃ, n’āhaṃ evaṃ vadeyyaṃ: ‘akusalaṃ, bhikkhave, pajahathā’ti.	If it were not possible to abandon the unwholesome, I would not say: ‘Bhikkhus, abandon the unwholesome!’

kimatthiya sutta (AN 11.1)

For What Purpose?

evaṃ me sutaṃ. ekaṃ samayaṃ bhagavā sāvatthiyaṃ viharati jeta-vane, anāthapiṇḍikassa ārāme.	Thus have I heard. On one occasion the Blessed One was dwelling at Sāvatthī in Jeta's Grove, Anāthapiṇḍika's Park.
atha kho āyasmā ānando yena bhagavā ten'upasaṅkami; upasaṅkamitvā, bhagavantaṃ abhivādetvā, ekam antaṃ nisīdi.	Then the Venerable Ānanda approached the Blessed One, paid homage to him, sat down to one side, ekam antaṃ nisinno kho, āyasmā ānando bhagavantaṃ etad avoca:	and said to him:
"kim-atthiyāni, bhante, kusalāni sīlāni kim-ānisaṃsānī"ti?	(1) "Bhante, what is the purpose and benefit of wholesome virtuous behavior?"
"avippaṭisār'atthāni kho, ānanda, kusalāni sīlāni avippaṭisār'ānisaṃsānī"ti.	(2) "Ānanda, the purpose and benefit of wholesome virtuous behavior is non-regret."
"avippaṭisāro pana, bhante, kim-atthiyo kim-ānisaṃso"ti? "avippaṭisāro kho, ānanda, pāmojj'attho pāmojj'ānisaṃso"ti.	(3) "And what, Bhante, is the purpose and benefit of non-regret?" "The purpose and benefit of non-regret is joy."
"pāmojjaṃ pana, bhante, kim-atthiyaṃ kim-ānisaṃsan"ti? "pāmojjaṃ kho, ānanda, pīt'atthaṃ pīt'ānisaṃsan"ti.	(4) "And what, Bhante, is the purpose and benefit of joy?" "The purpose and benefit of joy is rapture."
"pīti pana, bhante, kim-atthiyā kim-ānisaṃsā"ti? "pīti kho, ānanda, passaddh'atthā passaddh'ānisaṃsā"ti.	(5) "And what, Bhante, is the purpose and benefit of rapture?" "The purpose and benefit of rapture is tranquility."
"passaddhi pana, bhante, kim-atthiyā kim-ānisaṃsā"ti? "passaddhi kho, ānanda, sukh'atthā sukh'ānisaṃsā"ti.	(6) "And what, Bhante, is the purpose and benefit of tranquility?" "The purpose and benefit of tranquility is pleasure."

“sukhaṃ pana, bhante, kim-atthiyaṃ kim-ānisaṃsan”ti? “sukhaṃ kho, ānanda, samādh’atthaṃ samādh’ānisaṃsan”ti.	(7) “And what, Bhante, is the purpose and benefit of pleasure?” “The purpose and benefit of pleasure is concentration.”
“samādhi pana, bhante, kim-atthiyo kim-ānisaṃso”ti? “samādhi kho, ānanda, yathā-bhūta-ñāṇa-dassan’attho yathā-bhūta-ñāṇa-dassan’ānisaṃso”ti.	(8) “And what, Bhante, is the purpose and benefit of concentration?” “The purpose and benefit of concentration is the knowledge and vision of things as they really are.”
“yathā-bhūta-ñāṇa-dassanaṃ pana, bhante, kim-atthiyaṃ kim-ānisaṃsan”ti? “yathā-bhūta-ñāṇa-dassanaṃ kho, ānanda, nibbid’atthaṃ nibbid’ānisaṃsan”ti.	(9) “And what, Bhante, is the purpose and benefit of the knowledge and vision of things as they really are?” “The purpose and benefit of the knowledge and vision of things as they really are is disenchantment.”
“nibbidā, pana, bhante, kim-atthiyā kim-ānisaṃsā”ti? “nibbidā kho, ānanda, virāg’atthā virāg’ānisaṃsā”ti.	(10) And what, Bhante, is the purpose and benefit of disenchantment?” “The purpose and benefit of disenchantment is dispassion.”
“virāgo pana, bhante, kim-atthiyo kim-ānisaṃso”ti? “virāgo kho, ānanda, vimutti-ñāṇa-dassan’attho vimutti-ñāṇa-dassan’ānisaṃso.	(11) “And what, Bhante, is the purpose and benefit of dispassion?” “The purpose and benefit of dispassion is the knowledge and vision of liberation.”
iti kho, ānanda, kusalāni sīlāni avippaṭisār’atthāni avippaṭisār’ānisaṃsāni; avippaṭisāro pāmojj’attho pāmojj’ānisaṃso;	“Thus, Ānanda, (1)–(2) the purpose and benefit of wholesome virtuous behavior is non-regret; (3) the purpose and benefit of non-regret is joy;
pāmojjaṃ pīt’atthaṃ pīt’ānisaṃsaṃ; pīti passaddh’atthā passaddh’ānisaṃsā; passaddhi sukh’atthā sukh’ānisaṃsā; sukhaṃ samādh’atthaṃ samādh’ānisaṃsaṃ;	(4) the purpose and benefit of joy is rapture; (5) the purpose and benefit of rapture is tranquility; (6) the purpose and benefit of tranquility is pleasure; (7) the purpose and benefit of pleasure is concentration;

samādhi yathā-bhūta-ñāṇa-dassan'attho yathā-bhūta-ñāṇa-dassan'ānisaṃso; yathā-bhūta-ñāṇa-dassanaṃ nibbid'atthaṃ nibbid'ānisaṃsaṃ; nibbidā virāg'atthā virāg'ānisaṃsā;	(8) the purpose and benefit of concentration is the knowledge and vision of things as they really are; (9) the purpose and benefit of the knowledge and vision of things as they really are is disenchantment; (10) the purpose and benefit of disenchantment is dispassion; virāgo vimutti-ñāṇa-dassan'attho vimutti-ñāṇa-dassan'ānisaṃso. iti kho, ānanda, kusalāni sīlāni anupubbena aggāya parentī"ti.	and (11) the purpose and benefit of dispassion is the knowledge and vision of liberation. Thus, Ānanda, wholesome virtuous behavior progressively leads to the foremost."

Right View Comes First

so micchā-kammantassa pahānāya vāyamati, sammā-kammantassa upasampadāya; sv'āssa hoti sammā-vāyāmo. so sato micchā-kammantaṃ pajahati, sato sammā-kammantaṃ upasampajja viharati; sā'ssa hoti sammā-sati. itiyime tayo dhammā sammā-kammantaṃ anuparidhāvanti anuparivattanti, seyyath'idaṃ: sammā-diṭṭhi, sammā-vāyāmo, sammā-sati. …" MN 117	One makes an effort to abandon wrong action and to enter upon right action: this is one's right effort. Aware, one abandons wrong action, aware, one enters upon and abides in right action: this is one's right awareness. Thus these three things run and circle around right action, that is, right view, right effort, and right awareness. …"

Right Speech

vacī-pakopaṃ rakkheyya, vācāya saṃvuto siyā. vacī-duccaritaṃ hitvā, vācāya sucaritaṃ care. Dhp 232	One should guard against angry speech, let one be restrained in speech. Abandoning verbal misconduct, one should practice good conduct in speech.
na tena paṇḍito hoti, yāvatā bahu bhāsati. khemī, averī, abhayo, “paṇḍito”ti pavuccati. Dhp 258	One is not wise because one speaks much. One who is peaceful, kind and fearless is called wise.

Protecting the Truth

“pañca kho ime, bhāradvāja, dhammā diṭṭh’eva dhamme dvedhā vipākā. katame pañca? saddhā, ruci, anussavo, ākāra-parivitakko, diṭṭhi-nijjhāna-kkhanti. ime kho, bhāradvāja, pañca dhammā diṭṭh’eva dhamme dvedhā vipākā.	“There are five things, Bhāradvāja, that may turn out in two different ways here and now. What five? Faith, liking, oral tradition, logical reasoning, and reflective acceptance of a view. These five things may turn out in two different ways here and now.
api ca, bhāradvāja, susaddahitaṃyeva hoti, tañ ca hoti rittaṃ, tucchaṃ, musā; no ce’pi susaddahitaṃ hoti, tañ ca hoti bhūtaṃ, tacchaṃ, anaññathā.	Now something may be fully accepted out of faith, yet it may be empty, hollow, and false; but something else may not be fully accepted out of faith, yet it may be factual, true, and unmistaken.
api ca, bhāradvāja, surucitaṃyeva hoti ... pe ... svānussutaṃyeva hoti ... pe ... suparivitakkitaṃyeva hoti ... pe ... sunijjhāyitaṃyeva hoti, tañ ca hoti rittaṃ, tucchaṃ, musā; no ce’pi sunijjhāyitaṃ hoti, tañ ca hoti bhūtaṃ tacchaṃ anaññathā.	Again, something may be liked very much … well transmitted … well cogitated … well reflected upon, yet it may be empty, hollow, and false; but something else may not be well reflected upon, yet it may be factual, true, and unmistaken.
saccam anurakkhatā, bhāradvāja, viññunā purisena n’ālam ettha ek’aṃsena niṭṭhaṃ gantuṃ: ‘idameva saccaṃ, mogham aññan’”ti.	[Under these conditions] it is not proper for a wise man who protects truth to come to the definite conclusion: ‘Only this is true, anything else is wrong.’”
“kittāvatā pana, bho gotama, sacc’ānurakkhaṇā hoti, kittāvatā saccam anurakkhati? sacc’ānurakkhaṇaṃ mayaṃ bhavantaṃ gotamaṃ pucchāmā”ti.	“But, Master Gotama, in what way is there the protection of truth? How does one protect truth? We ask Master Gotama about the protection of truth.”
“saddhā ce’pi, bhāradvāja, purisassa hoti: ‘evaṃ me saddhā’ti — iti vadaṃ saccam anurakkhati, na tveva tāva ek’aṃsena niṭṭhaṃ gacchati: ‘idameva saccaṃ, mogham aññan’ti.	“If a person has faith, Bhāradvāja, he protects truth when he says: ‘My faith is thus’; but he does not yet come to the definite conclusion: ‘Only this is true, anything else is wrong.’
ettāvatā kho bhāradvāja sacc’ānurakkhaṇā hoti; ettāvatā saccam anurakkhati;	In this way, Bhāradvāja, there is the protection of truth; in this way he protects truth;

ettāvatā ca mayaṃ sacc'ānurakkhaṇaṃ paññāpema; na tveva tāva saccānubodho hoti.	in this way we describe the protection of truth; but as yet there is no awakening to truth.
ruci ce'pi, bhāradvāja, purisassa hoti ... pe ... anussavo ce'pi, bhāradvāja, purisassa hoti ... pe ... ākāra-parivitakko ce'pi, bhāradvāja, purisassa hoti ... pe ... diṭṭhi-nijjhāna-kkhanti ce'pi, bhāradvāja, purisassa hoti: 'evaṃ me diṭṭhi-nijjhāna-kkhantī'ti — iti vadaṃ saccam anurakkhati, na tveva tāva ek'aṃsena niṭṭhaṃ gacchati: 'idameva saccaṃ, mogham aññan'ti. ettāvatā kho, bhāradvāja, sacc'ānurakkhaṇā hoti, ettāvatā saccam anurakkhati, ettāvatā ca mayaṃ sacc'ānurakkhaṇaṃ paññapema. …"	If a person has a likeking for something … if he receives an oral tradition … if he uses logical reasoning … if he gains a reflective acceptance of a view, he protects truth when he says: 'My reflective acceptance of a view is thus'; but he does not yet come to the definite conclusion: 'Only this is true, anything else is wrong.' In this way too, Bhāradvāja, there is the protection of truth; in this way he protects truth; in this way we describe the protection of truth. …"

mano-pubbaṅgamā dhammā, mano-seṭṭhā mano-mayā. manasā ce paduṭṭhena, bhāsati vā karoti vā, tato naṃ dukkham anveti, cakkaṃ'va vahato padaṃ. Dhp 1	Mind precedes all actions, mind is their leader, they are made by mind. If a person speaks or acts with an impure mind, dukkha follows them, like the wheel of a cart follows the foot of the ox.
mano-pubbaṅgamā dhammā, mano-seṭṭhā mano-mayā. manasā ce pasannena, bhāsati vā karoti vā, tato naṃ sukham-anveti, chāyā'va anapāyinī. Dhp 2	Mind precedes all actions, mind is their leader, they are made by mind. If a person speaks or acts with a pure mind, happiness follows them, like a shadow that never leaves.
dunniggahassa lahuno, yattha-kāma-nipātino, cittassa damatho sādhu. cittaṃ dantaṃ sukh'āvahaṃ. Dhp 35	Good is the taming of the mind, swift and so hard to control; going wherever it likes. A tamed mind brings happiness.
sududdasaṃ, sunipuṇaṃ, yattha-kāma-nipātinaṃ, cittaṃ rakkhetha medhāvī. cittaṃ guttaṃ sukh'āvahaṃ. Dhp 36	Let the wise one guard the mind, so difficult to see and very subtle; going wherever it likes. A guarded mind brings happiness.

diso disaṃ yaṃ taṃ kayirā, verī vā pana verinaṃ, micchā-paṇihitaṃ cittaṃ, pāpiyo naṃ tato kare. Dhp 42	Whatever [harm] an enemy may do to an enemy, or a hater to a hater, a mind directed wrongly can do worse to oneself than that.
na taṃ mātā pitā kayirā, aññe vā'pi ca ñātakā, sammā-paṇihitaṃ cittaṃ, seyyaso naṃ tato kare. Dhp 43	Whatever [good] a mother, a father, or any other relative may do for you, a mind directed rightly can do more good for oneself than that.
dhamm'ārāmo, dhamma-rato, dhammaṃ anuvicintayaṃ, dhammaṃ anussaraṃ bhikkhu, saddhammā na parihāyati. Dhp 364	The bhikkhu who enjoys the Dhamma, delights in the Dhamma, reflects on the Dhamma, and recollects the Dhamma — he does not fall away from the true Dhamma.

The Wealth of Learning

AN 5.47	"And what, Bhikkhus, is the wealth of learning? Here, a noble disciple has learned much, remembers what he has learned, and accumulates what he has learned. Those teachings that are good in the beginning, good in the middle, and good in the end, with the right meaning and phrasing, which proclaim the perfectly complete and pure spiritual life — such teachings as these he has learned much of, retained in mind, recited verbally, mentally investigated, and penetrated well with wisdom. This is called the wealth of learning."

Two Kinds of Thought

On one occasion the Blessed One was living at Sāvatthī in Jeta’s Grove, Anāthapiṇḍika’s Park. There he addressed the bhikkhus thus: “Bhikkhus!”—“Venerable sir!” those bhikkhus replied. The Blessed One said this:
“pubb’eva me, bhikkhave, sambodhā anabhisambuddhassa bodhi-sattass’eva sato etad ahosi: ‘yaṃ nūn’āhaṃ dvidhā katvā dvidhā katvā vitakke vihareyyan’ti.	“Bhikkhus, before my enlightenment, while I was still only an unenlightened Bodhisatta, it occurred to me: ‘Suppose that I divide my thoughts into two classes.

Bhikkhus, whatever a bhikkhu frequently thinks and ponders upon, that will become the inclination of his mind. If he frequently thinks and ponders upon thoughts of sensual desire, he has abandoned the thought of renunciation to cultivate the thought of sensual desire, and then his mind inclines to thoughts of sensual desire.

Themes for Frequent Reflection

“pañc’imāni, bhikkhave, ṭhānāni abhiṇhaṃ paccavekkhitabbāni itthiyā vā purisena vā, gahaṭṭhena vā pabbajitena vā. katamāni pañca?	“Bhikkhus, there are these five themes that should frequently be reflected upon by a woman or a man, by a householder or one gone forth. What five?
“jarā-dhammo’mhi, jaraṃ anatīto”ti abhiṇhaṃ paccavekkhitabbaṃ itthiyā vā purisena vā, gahaṭṭhena vā pabbajitena vā.	(1) A woman or a man, a householder or one gone forth, should frequently reflect thus: “I am subject to old age; I am not exempt from old age.”
“byādhi-dhammo’mhi, byādhiṃ anatīto”ti abhiṇhaṃ paccavekkhitabbaṃ itthiyā vā purisena vā, gahaṭṭhena vā pabbajitena vā.	(2) A woman or a man, a householder or one gone forth, should frequently reflect thus: “I am subject to illness; I am not exempt from illness.”
“maraṇa-dhammo’mhi, maraṇaṃ anatīto”ti abhiṇhaṃ paccavekkhitabbaṃ itthiyā vā purisena vā, gahaṭṭhena vā pabbajitena vā.	(3) A woman or a man, a householder or one gone forth, should frequently reflect thus: “I am subject to death; I am not exempt from death.”
“sabbehi me piyehi manāpehi nānā-bhāvo vinā-bhāvo”ti abhiṇhaṃ paccavekkhitabbaṃ itthiyā vā purisena vā, gahaṭṭhena vā pabbajitena vā.	(4) A woman or a man, a householder or one gone forth, should frequently reflect thus: “I must be parted and separated from everyone and everything dear and agreeable to me.”
“kamma-ssako’mhi, kamma-dāyādo, kamma-yoni, kamma-bandhu, kamma-paṭisaraṇo. yaṃ kammaṃ karissāmi — kalyāṇaṃ vā pāpakaṃ vā — tassa dāyādo bhavissāmī”ti abhiṇhaṃ paccavekkhitabbaṃ itthiyā vā purisena vā, gahaṭṭhena vā pabbajitena vā.”	(5) A woman or a man, a householder or one gone forth, should frequently reflect thus: “I am the owner of my kamma, the heir of my kamma; I have kamma as my origin, kamma as my relative, kamma as my refuge; whatever kamma I will do, good or bad, of that I will be the heir.”” sammādiṭṭhi pubbaṅgamā

so micchā-saṅkappassa pahānāya vāyamati, sammā-saṅkappassa upasampadāya; sv’āssa hoti sammā-vāyāmo. so sato micchā-saṅkappaṃ pajahati, sato sammā-saṅkappaṃ upasampajja viharati; sā’ssa hoti sammā-sati. itiyime tayo dhammā sammā-saṅkappaṃ anuparidhāvanti anuparivattanti, seyyath’idaṃ: sammā-diṭṭhi, sammā-vāyāmo, sammā-sati. …” MN 117	One makes an effort to abandon wrong intention and to enter upon right intention: this is one’s right effort. Aware, one abandons wrong intention, aware, one enters upon and abides in right intention: this is one’s right awareness. Thus these three things run and circle around right intention, that is, right view, right effort, and right awareness. …”

The Four Noble Truths

bahuṃ ve saraṇaṃ yanti, pabbatāni vanāni ca, ārāma-rukkha-cetyāni, manussā bhaya-tajjitā. Dhp 188	People go to many places for refuge — to mountains and forests, parks and tree shrines, when they are startled by fear.
n'etaṃ kho saraṇaṃ khemaṃ, n'etaṃ saraṇam uttamaṃ. n'etaṃ saraṇam āgamma sabba-dukkhā pamuccati. Dhp 189	This is not a safe refuge, this is not the highest refuge. Not by going to this refuge is one liberated from all dukkha.
yo ca buddhañ ca dhammañ ca, saṅghañ ca saraṇaṃ gato, cattāri ariya-saccāni samma-ppaññāya passati — Dhp 190	But one who has gone for refuge to the Buddha, the Dhamma and the Saṅgha, who sees the Four Noble Truths with perfect wisdom — dukkhaṃ dukkha-samuppādaṃ, dukkhassa ca atikkamaṃ. ariyaṃ c'aṭṭh'aṅgikaṃ maggaṃ, dukkh'ūpasama-gāminaṃ. Dhp 191	dukkha, the origination of dukkha, the going beyond of dukkha, and the Noble Eightfold Path leading to the cessation of dukkha.
etaṃ kho saraṇaṃ khemaṃ, etaṃ saraṇam uttamaṃ. etaṃ saraṇam āgamma, sabba-dukkhā pamuccati. Dhp 192	This indeed is the safe refuge, this is the highest refuge. Having gone to this refuge, one is liberated from all dukkha.

pariññeyya sutta (SN 56.29)

To Be Fully Understood

“cattār’imāni, bhikkhave, ariya-saccāni. katamāni cattāri? dukkhaṃ ariya-saccaṃ, dukkha-samudayaṃ ariya-saccaṃ, dukkha-nirodhaṃ ariya-saccaṃ, dukkha-nirodha-gāminī paṭipadā ariya-saccaṃ. imāni kho, bhikkhave, cattāri ariya-saccāni.	“Bhikkhus, there are these Four Noble Truths. What four? The noble truth of dukkha, the noble truth of the origin of dukkha, the noble truth of the cessation of dukkha, the noble truth of the way leading to the cessation of dukkha. These are the Four Noble Truths.
imesaṃ kho, bhikkhave, catunnaṃ ariya-saccānaṃ atthi ariya-saccaṃ pariññeyyaṃ, atthi ariya-saccaṃ pahātabbaṃ, atthi ariya-saccaṃ sacchi-kātabbaṃ, atthi ariya-saccaṃ bhāvetabbaṃ.	Of these Four Noble Truths, bhikkhus, there is a noble truth that is to be fully understood; there is a noble truth that is to be abandoned; there is a noble truth that is to be realized; there is a noble truth that is to be developed.
katamañ ca, bhikkhave, ariya-saccaṃ pariññeyyaṃ? dukkhaṃ, bhikkhave, ariya-saccaṃ pariññeyyaṃ, dukkha-samudayaṃ ariya-saccaṃ pahātabbaṃ, dukkha-nirodhaṃ ariya-saccaṃ sacchi-kātabbaṃ, dukkha-nirodha-gāminī paṭipadā ariya-saccaṃ bhāvetabbaṃ.	And what, bhikkhus, is the noble truth that is to be fully understood? The noble truth of dukkha is to be fully understood; the noble truth of the origin of dukkha is to be abandoned; the noble truth of the cessation of dukkha is to be realized; the noble truth of the way leading to the cessation of dukkha is to be developed.
tasmātiha, bhikkhave, ‘idaṃ dukkhan’ti yogo karaṇīyo, ‘ayaṃ dukkha-samudayo’ti yogo karaṇīyo, ‘ayaṃ dukkha-nirodho’ti yogo karaṇīyo, ‘ayaṃ dukkha-nirodha-gāminī paṭipadā’ti yogo karaṇīyo”ti.	Therefore, bhikkhus, an exertion should be made to understand: ‘This is dukkha’. An exertion should be made to understand: ‘This is the origin of dukkha.’ An exertion should be made to understand: ‘This is the cessation of dukkha.’ An exertion should be made to understand: ‘This is the way leading to the cessation of dukkha.’”

āsavakkhaya sutta (SN 56.25)

The Destruction of the āsavas

“jānato’haṃ, bhikkhave, passato āsavānaṃ khayaṃ vadāmi, no ajānato apassato. kiñ ca, bhikkhave, jānato passato āsavānaṃ khayo hoti?	“Bhikkhus, I say that the destruction of the āsavas is for one who knows and sees, not for one who does not know and does not see. For one who knows what, for one who sees what, does the destruction of the āsavās come about?
‘idaṃ dukkhan’ti, bhikkhave, jānato passato āsavānaṃ khayo hoti, ‘ayaṃ dukkha-samudayo’ti jānato passato āsavānaṃ khayo hoti, ‘ayaṃ dukkha-nirodho’ti jānato passato āsavānaṃ khayo hoti, ‘ayaṃ dukkha-nirodha-gāminī paṭipadā’ti jānato passato āsavānaṃ khayo hoti.	The destruction of the āsavas comes about for one who knows and sees: ‘This is dukkha’; for one who knows and sees: ‘This is the origin of dukkha’; for one who knows and sees: ‘This is the cessation of dukkha’; for one who knows and sees: ‘This is the way leading to the cessation of dukkha.’
evaṃ kho, bhikkhave, jānato, evaṃ passato, āsavānaṃ khayo hoti.	It is for one who knows thus, for one who sees thus, that the destruction of the āsavas comes about.
tasmātiha, bhikkhave, ‘idaṃ dukkhan’ti yogo karaṇīyo, ‘ayaṃ dukkha-samudayo’ti yogo karaṇīyo, ‘ayaṃ dukkha-nirodho’ti yogo karaṇīyo, ‘ayaṃ dukkha-nirodha-gāminī paṭipadā’ti yogo karaṇīyo”ti.	“Therefore, bhikkhus, an exertion should be made to understand: ‘This is dukkha’. … An exertion should be made to understand: ‘This is the way leading to the cessation of dukkha.’”

The Noble Truth of dukkha

The Truth of dukkha

yo ca vassa-sataṃ jīve, duppañño asamāhito. ek'āhaṃ jīvitaṃ seyyo, paññavantassa jhāyino. Dhp 111	One may live a hundred years with no paññā and no samādhi. Better it is a single day of life for one who has paññā and meditates.
yo ca vassa-sataṃ jīve, apassaṃ udaya-bbayaṃ. ek'āhaṃ jīvitaṃ seyyo, passato udaya-bbayaṃ. Dhp 113	One may live a hundred years without seeing arising and passing away. Better it is a single day of life for one seeing arising and passing away.
sabbaso nāma-rūpasmiṃ, yassa n'atthi mamāyitaṃ, asatā ca na socati — sa ve "bhikkhū"ti vuccati. Dhp 367	One who does not take anything as "mine", throughout this mind and body, who does not sorrow over that which is not — he is truly called a bhikkhu.
n'atthi rāga-samo aggi; n'atthi dosa-samo kali; n'atthi khandha-samā dukkhā; n'atthi santiparaṃ sukhaṃ. Dhp 202	There is no fire like desire; there is no misfortune like aversion; there is no dukkha like the aggregates; there is no happiness greater than peace.
yato yato sammasati khandhānaṃ udaya-bbayaṃ, labhatī pīti-pāmojjaṃ, amataṃ taṃ vijānataṃ. Dhp 374	Whenever one comprehends the arising and passing away of the aggregates, one experiences rapture and joy, for the discerning, that [leads to] the Deathless.

“katame ca, bhikkhave, saṃkhittena, pañc’upādāna-kkhandhā dukkhā? seyyath’idaṃ: rūp’upādāna-kkhandho, vedan’upādāna-kkhandho, saññ’upādāna-kkhandho, saṅkhār’upādāna-kkhandho, viññāṇ’upādāna-kkhandho. ime vuccanti, bhikkhave, saṃkhittena, pañc’upādāna-kkhandhā dukkhā. idaṃ vuccati, bhikkhave, dukkhaṃ ariya-saccaṃ.” MN 10	“And what, Bhikkhus, are the five clinging-aggregates that, in brief, are dukkha? They are: the material form clinging-aggregate, the vedanā clinging-aggregate, the perception clinging-aggregate, the saṅkhāras clinging-aggregate, and the consciousness clinging-aggregate. These are the five clinging-aggregates that, in brief, are dukkha. This is called the noble truth of dukkha.”

“katame ca, bhikkhave, pariññeyyā dhammā? rūpaṃ, bhikkhave, pariññeyyo dhammo; vedanā pariññeyyo dhammo; saññā pariññeyyo dhammo; saṅkhārā pariññeyyo dhammo; viññāṇaṃ pariññeyyo dhammo; ime vuccanti, bhikkhave, pariññeyyā dhammā.” SN 22.23	“And what, bhikkhus, are the things that should be fully understood? Material form, bhikkhus, is a thing that should be fully understood; vedanā … perception … saṅkhāras… consciousness is a thing that should be fully understood. These are called the things that should be fully understood.”

The Characteristic of Nonself

dukkhameva (SN 5.10 - excerpt)

It's Only dukkha

”atha kho māro pāpimā, vajirāya bhikkhuniyā bhayaṃ, chambhitattaṃ, loma-haṃsaṃ uppādetu'kāmo, samādhimhā cāvetu'kāmo, yena vajirā bhikkhunī ten'upasaṅkami; upasaṅkamitvā, vajiraṃ bhikkhuniṃ gāthāya ajjhabhāsi:	”Then Māra the Evil One, desiring to arouse fear, trepidation, and terror in the bhikkhunī Vajirā, desiring to make her fall away from concentration, approached her and addressed her in verse:
“ken'āyaṃ pakato satto? kuvaṃ sattassa kārako? kuvaṃ satto samuppanno? kuvaṃ satto nirujjhatī?”ti. [...]	“By whom has this being been created? Where is the maker of the being? Where has the being arisen? Where does the being cease?” [...]
“kiṃ nu 'satto'ti paccesi? māra, diṭṭhi-gataṃ nu te? suddha-saṅkhāra-puñjo'yaṃ, nayidha satt'upalabbhati. yathā hi aṅga-sambhārā, hoti saddo 'ratho' iti, evaṃ khandhesu santesu, hoti 'satto'ti sammuti.	“Why now do you assume 'a being'? Māra, have you fallen into wrong views? This is merely a heap of saṅkhāras: Here no being is found. Just as, with an assemblage of parts, The word 'chariot' is used, So, when the aggregates are present, There is the convention 'a being.'
dukkhameva hi sambhoti, dukkhaṃ tiṭṭhati veti ca. n'āññatra dukkhā sambhoti, n'āññaṃ dukkhā nirujjhatī”ti.	It's only dukkha that comes to be, dukkha that stays and passes away. Nothing but dukkha comes to be, Nothing but dukkha ceases.”

Here, bhikkhus, the uninstructed ordinary person, who is not a seer of the noble ones and is unskilled and undisciplined in their Dhamma, who is not a seer of superior persons and is unskilled and undisciplined in their Dhamma, regards material form as self.
yā kho pana sā, bhikkhave, samanupassanā, saṅkhāro so. so pana saṅkhāro — kiṃ-nidāno, kiṃ-samudayo, kiṃ-jātiko, kiṃ-pabhavo?	That regarding, bhikkhus, is a saṅkhāra. This saṅkhāra — what is its source, what is its origin, from what is it born and produced?
avijjā-samphassajena, bhikkhave, vedayitena phuṭṭhassa assutavato puthujjanassa, uppannā taṇhā; tatojo so saṅkhāro.	When the uninstructed ordinary person is contacted by a vedanā born of contact accompanied by ignorance, craving arises: because of that, this saṅkhāra is born.
iti kho, bhikkhave, so’pi saṅkhāro anicco, saṅkhato, paṭicca-samuppanno; sā’pi taṇhā aniccā, saṅkhatā, paṭicca-samuppannā; sā’pi vedanā aniccā, saṅkhatā, paṭicca-samuppannā; so’pi phasso anicco, saṅkhato, paṭicca-samuppanno; sā’pi avijjā aniccā, saṅkhatā, paṭicca-samuppannā. evam’pi kho, bhikkhave, jānato, evaṃ passato anantarā āsavānaṃ khayo hoti.”	Thus, bhikkhus, that saṅkhāra is impermanent, conditioned, dependently arisen; that craving is impermanent, conditioned, dependently arisen; that vedanā is impermanent, conditioned, dependently arisen; that contact is impermanent, conditioned, dependently arisen; that ignorance is impermanent, conditioned, dependently arisen. When one knows and sees thus, bhikkhus, the immediate destruction of the āsavas occurs.”

Dhp 360-361	Guarding of the eye is good, good is guarding of the ear, guarding of the nose is good, good is guarding of the tongue. Guarding of the body is good, good is guarding of speech, guarding of the mind is good, good is guarding everywhere. The bhikkhu guarded everywhere is liberated from all dukkha.

Dhp 7	Māra brings down one who lives contemplating attraction in things, who is unrestrained in their senses, not knowing moderation in food, lazy, and unenergetic — just as wind brings down a weak tree.

Dhp 8	Māra does not bring down one who lives contemplating inattractiveness in things, who is restrained in their senses, knowing moderation in food, full of devotion, and energetic — just as wind does not bring down a rocky mountain.

Guarding the Doors of the Sense Faculties

“kathañ ca, bhikkhave, bhikkhu indriyesu gutta-dvāro hoti? idha, bhikkhave, bhikkhu cakkhunā rūpaṃ disvā, na nimitta-ggāhī hoti, n’ānubyañjana-ggāhī;	“And how, bhikkhus, does a bhikkhu guard the doors of the sense faculties? Here, having seen a visual form with the eye, a bhikkhu does not grasp its marks and features.

Since, if he left the mind faculty unrestrained, bad unwholesome states of craving and aversion might invade him. He practices restraint over it; he guards the mind faculty, he undertakes the restraint of the mind faculty. It is in this way that a bhikkhu guards the doors of the sense faculties.”

sabba sutta (SN 35.23)

sāvatthi-nidānaṃ. “sabbaṃ vo, bhikkhave, desessāmi; taṃ suṇātha. kiñ ca, bhikkhave, sabbaṃ?	At Sāvatthī. “Bhikkhus, I will teach you the all. Listen to that. And what, bhikkhus, is the all?

The eye and visual forms, the ear and sounds, the nose and odours, the tongue and tastes, the body and sensations, the mind and mental objects. This is called the all.
yo, bhikkhave, evaṃ vadeyya: ‘aham etaṃ sabbaṃ paccakkhāya, aññaṃ sabbaṃ paññāpessāmī’ti.	If anyone, bhikkhus, should speak thus: ‘Having rejected this all, I shall make known another all.’
tassa vāc’āvatthurev’assa, puṭṭho ca na sampāyeyya, uttariñ ca vighātaṃ āpajjeyya. taṃ kissa hetu? yathā taṃ, bhikkhave, avisayasmin”ti.	This would be just a baseless statement on his part, and if questioned, he would not be able to reply. And further, he would meet with frustration. For what reason? Because, bhikkhus, that is outside his range.”

Burning

ekaṃ samayaṃ bhagavā gayāyaṃ viharati gayā-sīse, saddhiṃ bhikkhu-sahassena. tatra kho bhagavā bhikkhū āmantesi: “sabbaṃ, bhikkhave, ādittaṃ.	On one occasion the Blessed One was dwelling at Gayā, at Gayā’s Head, together with a thousand bhikkhus. There the Blessed One addressed the bhikkhus thus: “Bhikkhus, all is burning.
kiñ ca, bhikkhave, sabbaṃ ādittaṃ? cakkhu, bhikkhave, ādittaṃ, rūpā ādittā, cakkhu-viññāṇaṃ ādittaṃ, cakkhu-samphasso āditto.	And what, bhikkhus, is the all that is burning? The eye is burning, visual forms are burning, eye-consciousness is burning, eye-contact is burning,

Burning with the fire of craving, with the fire of aversion, with the fire of delusion; burning with birth, aging, and death; with sorrow, lamentation, pain, dejection, and misery, I say.

The mind is burning, mental objects are burning, mind-consciousness is burning, mind-contact is burning, and whatever is felt with mind-contact as condition— whether pleasant or painful or neither-painful-nor-pleasant—that too is burning.
kena ādittaṃ? ‘rāg’agginā, dos’agginā, moh’agginā ādittaṃ;	Burning with what? Burning with the fire of craving, with the fire of aversion, with the fire of delusion;

Seeing thus, bhikkhus, the instructed noble disciple experiences disenchantment towards the eye, towards visual forms, towards eye-consciousness, towards eye-contact, towards whatever is felt with eye-contact as condition—whether pleasant or painful or neither-painful-nor-pleasant; …
yam'p'idaṃ mano-samphassa-paccayā uppajjati vedayitaṃ sukhaṃ vā, dukkhaṃ vā, adukkham-asukhaṃ vā, tasmim'pi nibbindati.	towards the mind … towards whatever is felt with mind-contact as condition—whether pleasant or painful or neither-painful-nor-pleasant; nibbindaṃ virajjati; virāgā vimuccati; vimuttasmiṃ 'vimuttam'iti ñāṇaṃ hoti.	Experiencing disenchantment, he becomes dispassionate. Through dispassion, he is liberated. When he is liberated there comes the knowledge: 'liberated.'
'khīṇā jāti, vusitaṃ brahma-cariyaṃ, kataṃ karaṇīyaṃ, n'āparaṃ itthattāyā'ti pajānātī"ti.	He understands: 'birth is finished with, the spiritual life has been lived, what had to be done has been done, there is no more for this state of being.'"
idam avoca bhagavā. attamanā te bhikkhū bhagavato bhāsitaṃ abhinanduṃ. imasmiñ ca pana veyyākaraṇasmiṃ bhaññamāne tassa bhikkhu-sahassassa anupādāya āsavehi cittāni vimucciṃsū"ti.	This is what the Blessed One said. Elated, those bhikkhus delighted in the Blessed One's statement. And while this discourse was being spoken, the minds of the thousand bhikkhus were liberated from the āsavas by nonclinging."

bāhiya sutta (KN 3.10 - excerpt)

To Bāhiya

“tasmātiha te, bāhiya, evaṃ sikkhitabbaṃ: ‘diṭṭhe diṭṭha-mattaṃ bhavissati, sute suta-mattaṃ bhavissati, mute muta-mattaṃ bhavissati, viññāte viññāta-mattaṃ bhavissatī’ti. evañhi te, bāhiya, sikkhitabbaṃ.	”... Therefore, bāhiya, you should train yourself thus: In the seen there will be merely the seen; in the heard there will be merely the heard; in the sensed there will be merely the sensed; in the cognized there will be merely the cognized. Thus, bāhiya, should you train yourself.
yato kho te, bāhiya, diṭṭhe diṭṭhamattaṃ bhavissati, sute suta-mattaṃ bhavissati, mute muta-mattaṃ bhavissati, viññāte viññāta-mattaṃ bhavissati,	When, bāhiya, [regarding things seen, heard, sensed, and cognized by you,] in the seen there will be merely the seen, in the heard there will be merely the heard, in the sensed there will be merely the sensed, in the cognized there will be merely the cognized, tato tvaṃ, bāhiya, na tena; yato tvaṃ, bāhiya, na tena, tato tvaṃ, bāhiya, na tattha; yato tvaṃ, bāhiya, na tattha, tato tvaṃ, bāhiya, nev’idha, na huraṃ, na ubhayam-antarena. es’ev’anto dukkhassā”ti.	then, bāhiya, you will not be ‘with that.’ When, bāhiya, you are not ‘with that,’ then you will not be ‘in that.’ When, bāhiya, you are not ‘in that,’ then you will be neither here nor beyond nor in between the two. Just this is the end of dukkha.”
atha kho bāhiyassa dārucīriyassa, bhagavato imāya saṃkhittāya dhamma-desanāya, tāvadeva anupādāya āsavehi cittaṃ vimucci.	Then, due to this brief Dhamma teaching of the Blessed One, Bāhiya’s mind was liberated from the āsavas by non-clinging right there and then.

taṇhāya jāyatī soko, taṇhāya jāyatī bhayaṃ. taṇhāya vippamuttassa, n'atthi soko; kuto bhayaṃ? Dhp 216	Sorrow is born from craving, from craving fear is born. For one who is liberated from craving, there is no sorrow; how then fear?
yogā ve jāyatī bhūri, ayogā bhūri-saṅkhayo. etaṃ dvedhā-pathaṃ ñatvā, bhavāya vibhavāya ca, tathā'ttānaṃ niveseyya, yathā bhūri pavaḍḍhati. Dhp 282	Wisdom is born from meditation; without meditation wisdom withers away. Having known these two paths of progress and decline, one should conduct oneself so that wisdom develops.
sabba-dānaṃ dhamma-dānaṃ jināti; sabba-rasaṃ dhamma-raso jināti; sabba-ratiṃ dhamma-rati jināti; taṇha-kkhayo sabba-dukkhaṃ jināti. Dhp 354	The gift of Dhamma surpasses all gifts; the taste of Dhamma surpasses all tastes; the delight in Dhamma surpasses all delights; the end of craving surpasses all dukkha.
sabbattha ve sappurisā cajanti. na kāma-kāmā lapayanti santo. sukhena phuṭṭhā atha vā dukhena, na ucc'āvacaṃ paṇḍitā dassayanti. Dhp 83	The good give up (attachment for) everything. The virtuous do not prattle desiring sensual pleasures. When touched by pleasure or pain, the wise show no elation or depression.

The Noble Truth of the Origin of dukkha

“idaṃ kho pana, bhikkhave, dukkha-samudayaṃ ariya-saccaṃ: yā’yaṃ taṇhā pono-bbhavikā, nandi-rāga-sahagatā, tatra-tatr’ābhinandinī, seyyath’idaṃ: kāma-taṇhā, bhava-taṇhā, vibhava-taṇhā.” SN 56.11	“Now this, bhikkhus, is the noble truth of the origin of dukkha: it is this craving which leads to renewed existence, accompanied by delight and lust, seeking delight here and there; that is, craving for sensual pleasures, craving for becoming, craving for non-becoming.”

‘vedanā, vedanā’ti

Whether it be pleasant or painful Along with the neither-painful-nor-pleasant, Both the internal and the external, Whatever kind of vedanā there is: Having known, “This is dukkha, deceptive, disintegrating,” Having touched and touched them, seeing their fall, Thus one loses one’s passion for them.”

pahāna sutta (SN 36.3)

Abandonment

“tisso imā, bhikkhave, vedanā. katamā tisso? sukhā vedanā, dukkhā vedanā, adukkham-asukhā vedanā. sukhāya, bhikkhave, vedanāya rāg’ānusayo pahātabbo, dukkhāya vedanāya paṭigh’ānusayo pahātabbo, adukkham-asukhāya vedanāya avijjā’nusayo pahātabbo.	“Bhikkhus, there are these three vedanā ... The latent tendency to craving should be abandoned in regard to pleasant vedanā. The latent tendency to aversion should be abandoned in regard to painful vedanā. The latent tendency to ignorance should be abandoned in regard to neither-painful-nor-pleasant vedanā.
yato kho, bhikkhave, bhikkhuno sukhāya vedanāya rāg’ānusayo pahīno hoti, dukkhāya vedanāya paṭigh’ānusayo pahīno hoti,	When, bhikkhus, a bhikkhu has abandoned the latent tendency to craving in regard to pleasant vedanā, the latent tendency to aversion in regard to painful vedanā, pubba sutta (SN 36.24)

“pubb’eva me, bhikkhave, sambodhā anabhisambuddhassa bodhi-sattass’eva sato etad ahosi:	“Bhikkhus, before my enlightenment, while I was still a bodhisatta, not yet fully enlightened, it occurred to me:
‘katamā nu kho vedanā? katamo vedanā-samudayo? katamā vedanā-samudaya-gāminī paṭipadā? katamo vedanā-nirodho? katamā vedanā-nirodha-gāminī paṭipadā? ko vedanāya assādo? ko ādīnavo? kiṃ nissaraṇan’ti?	“What now is vedanā? "Bhikkhus, I say that the destruction of the āsavas is for one who knows and sees, not for one who does not know and does not see. For one who knows what, for one who sees what, does the destruction of the āsavas come about?
iti rūpaṃ, iti rūpassa samudayo, iti rūpassa atthaṅgamo, iti vedanā ... pe ... iti saññā ... iti saṅkhārā ... iti viññāṇaṃ, iti viññāṇassa samudayo, iti viññāṇassa atthaṅgamo"ti. evaṃ kho, bhikkhave, jānato, evaṃ passato, āsavānaṃ khayo hoti.	'Such is material form, such its origin, such its passing away; such is vedanā ... such is perception … such are saṅkhāras … such is consciousness, such its origin, such its passing away': it is for one who knows thus, for one who sees thus, that the destruction of the āsavas comes about.
yam'pi'ssa taṃ, bhikkhave, khayasmiṃ khaye ñāṇaṃ, tam'pi saupanisaṃ vadāmi, no anupanisaṃ. kā ca, bhikkhave, khaye ñāṇassa upanisā? 'vimuttī'ti 'ssa vacanīyaṃ.	I say, bhikkhus, that the knowledge of destruction in regard to destruction has a proximate cause; it does not lack a proximate cause. And what is the proximate cause for the knowledge of destruction? It should be said: liberation.

vimuttim'p'āhaṃ, bhikkhave, saupanisaṃ vadāmi, no anupanisaṃ. kā ca, bhikkhave, vimuttiyā upanisā? 'virāgo'ti 'ssa vacanīyaṃ.	I say, bhikkhus, that liberation too has a proximate cause; it does not lack a proximate cause. And what is the proximate cause for liberation? It should be said: dispassion.

I say, bhikkhus, that dispassion too has a proximate cause; it does not lack a proximate cause. And what is the proximate cause for dispassion? It should be said: disenchantment. I say, bhikkhus, that disenchantment too has a proximate cause; it does not lack a proximate cause. And what is the proximate cause for disenchantment? It should be said: the knowledge and vision of things as they really are.
yathā-bhūta-ñāṇa-dassanam'p'āhaṃ, bhikkhave, saupanisaṃ vadāmi, no anupanisaṃ. kā ca, bhikkhave, yathā-bhūta-ñāṇa-dassanassa upanisā? I say, bhikkhus, that the knowledge and vision of things as they really are too has a proximate cause; it does not lack a proximate cause. And what is the proximate cause for the knowledge and vision of things as they really are? It should be said: concentration. I say, bhikkhus, that concentration too has a proximate cause; it does not lack a proximate cause. And what is the proximate cause for concentration? It should be said: pleasure. I say, bhikkhus, that pleasure too has a proximate cause; it does not lack a proximate cause. And what is the proximate cause for pleasure? It should be said: tranquillity. passaddhim'p'āhaṃ, bhikkhave, saupanisaṃ vadāmi, no anupanisaṃ. kā ca, bhikkhave, passaddhiyā upanisā? 'pītī'ti 'ssa vacanīyaṃ.	I say, bhikkhus, that tranquillity too has a proximate cause; it does not lack a proximate cause. And what is the proximate cause for tranquillity? It should be said: rapture.

pītim'p'āhaṃ, bhikkhave, saupanisaṃ vadāmi, no anupanisaṃ. kā ca, bhikkhave, pītiyā upanisā? I say, bhikkhus, that rapture too has a proximate cause; it does not lack a proximate cause. And what is the proximate cause for rapture? It should be said: joy. I say, bhikkhus, that joy too has a proximate cause; it does not lack a proximate cause. And what is the proximate cause for joy? It should be said: devotion. I say, bhikkhus, that devotion too has a proximate cause; it does not lack a proximate cause. And what is the proximate cause for devotion? It should be said: dukkha. I say, bhikkhus, that dukkha too has a proximate cause; it does not lack a proximate cause. And what is the proximate cause for dukkha? It should be said: birth. I say, bhikkhus, that birth too has a proximate cause; it does not lack a proximate cause. And what is the proximate cause for birth? It should be said: becoming. I say, bhikkhus, that becoming too has a proximate cause; it does not lack a proximate cause. And what is the proximate cause for becoming? It should be said: clinging.
upādānam'p'āhaṃ, bhikkhave, saupanisaṃ vadāmi, no anupanisaṃ. kā ca, bhikkhave, upādānassa upanisā? 'taṇhā'ti 'ssa vacanīyaṃ. taṇham'p'āhaṃ, bhikkhave, saupanisaṃ vadāmi, no anupanisaṃ. kā ca, bhikkhave, taṇhāya upanisā? 'vedanā'ti 'ssa vacanīyaṃ	I say, bhikkhus, that clinging too has a proximate cause; it does not lack a proximate cause. And what is the proximate cause for clinging? It should be said: craving. I say, bhikkhus, that craving too has a proximate cause; it does not lack a proximate cause. And what is the proximate cause for craving? It should be said: vedanā.

For vedanā, it should be said: contact. For contact: the six sense bases. For the six sense bases: mind and matter. For mind and matter: consciousness. For consciousness: saṅkhāras. I say, bhikkhus, that saṅkhāras too have a proximate cause; they do not lack a proximate cause. And what is the proximate cause for saṅkhāras? It should be said: ignorance.
iti kho, bhikkhave, avijj’ūpanisā saṅkhārā, saṅkhār’ūpanisaṃ viññāṇaṃ, viññāṇ’ūpanisaṃ nāma-rūpaṃ, nāma-rūp’ūpanisaṃ saḷ-āyatanaṃ, saḷ-āyatan’ūpaniso phasso, phass’ūpanisā vedanā, vedan’ūpanisā taṇhā, taṇh’ūpanisaṃ upādānaṃ, upādān’ūpaniso bhavo, bhav’ūpanisā jāti, jāt’ūpanisaṃ dukkhaṃ,	Thus, bhikkhus, with ignorance as proximate cause, saṅkhāras [come to be]; with saṅkhāras as proximate cause, consciousness; with consciousness as proximate cause, mind and matter; with mind and matter as proximate cause, the six sense bases; with the six sense bases as proximate cause, contact; with contact as proximate cause, vedanā; with vedanā as proximate cause, craving; with craving as proximate cause, clinging; with clinging as proximate cause, becoming; with becoming as proximate cause, birth; with birth as proximate cause, dukkha; dukkh’ūpanisā saddhā, saddh’ūpanisaṃ pāmojjaṃ, pāmojj’ūpanisā pīti, pīt’ūpanisā passaddhi, passaddh’ūpanisaṃ sukhaṃ, sukh’ūpaniso samādhi, samādh’ūpanisaṃ yathā-bhūta-ñāṇa-dassanaṃ,	with dukkha as proximate cause, devotion; with devotion as proximate cause, joy; with joy as proximate cause, rapture; with rapture as proximate cause, tranquillity; with tranquillity as proximate cause, pleasure; with pleasure as proximate cause, concentration; with concentration as proximate cause, the knowledge and vision of things as they really are;

yathā-bhūta-ñāṇa-dassan'ūpanisā nibbidā, nibbid'ūpaniso virāgo, virāg'ūpanisā vimutti, vimutt'ūpanisaṃ khaye ñāṇaṃ.	with the knowledge and vision of things as they really are as proximate cause, disenchantment; with disenchantment as proximate cause, dispassion; with dispassion as proximate cause, liberation; with liberation as proximate cause, the knowledge of destruction.
seyyathāpi, bhikkhave, upari-pabbate thulla-phusitake deve vassante, taṃ udakaṃ yathā-ninnaṃ pavattamānaṃ pabbata-kandara-padara-sākhā paripūreti. pabbata-kandara-padara-sākhā-paripūrā kusobbhe paripūrenti. kusobbhā paripūrā mahā-sobbhe paripūrenti. mahā-sobbhā paripūrā kunnadiyo paripūrenti. kunnadiyo paripūrā mahā-nadiyo paripūrenti. mahā-nadiyo paripūrā mahā-samuddaṃ paripūrenti.	Just as, bhikkhus, when rain pours down in thick droplets on a mountain top, the water flows down along the slope and fills the mountain's clefts, gullies, and creeks; these being full fill up the pools; these being full fill up the lakes; these being full fill up the streams; these being full fill up the rivers; and these being full fill up the great ocean;
evameva kho, bhikkhave, avijj'ūpanisā saṅkhārā, saṅkhār'ūpanisaṃ viññāṇaṃ, viññāṇ'ūpanisaṃ nāma-rūpaṃ, nāma-rūp'ūpanisaṃ saḷ-āyatanaṃ, saḷ-āyatan'ūpaniso phasso, phass'ūpanisā vedanā, vedan'ūpanisā taṇhā, taṇh'ūpanisaṃ upādānaṃ, upādān'ūpaniso bhavo, bhav'ūpanisā jāti, jāt'ūpanisaṃ dukkhaṃ, dukkh'ūpanisā saddhā, saddh'ūpanisaṃ pāmojjaṃ, pāmojj'ūpanisā pīti, pīt'ūpanisā passaddhi, passaddh'ūpanisaṃ sukhaṃ, sukh'ūpaniso samādhi, samādh'ūpanisaṃ yathā-bhūta-ñāṇa-dassanaṃ, yathā-bhūta-ñāṇa-dassan'ūpanisā nibbidā, nibbid'ūpaniso virāgo, virāg'ūpanisā vimutti, vimutt'ūpanisaṃ khaye ñāṇan"ti.	so too, with ignorance as proximate cause, saṅkhāras [come to be]; with saṅkhāras as proximate cause, consciousness … with liberation as proximate cause, the knowledge of destruction."

avijjā sutta (AN 10.61)

Ignorance

“purimā, bhikkhave, koṭi na paññāyati avijjāya — ‘ito pubbe avijjā n’āhosi, atha pacchā samabhavī’ti. evañ c’etaṃ, bhikkhave, vuccati, atha ca pana paññāyati: ‘ida’ppaccayā avijjā’ti.	“Bhikkhus, a first point of ignorance is not discerned such that one might say: ‘before this there was no ignorance and afterward it came into being.’ Still, ignorance is discerned to have a specific condition.
avijjam’p’āhaṃ, bhikkhave, s’āhāraṃ vadāmi, no anāhāraṃ. ko c’āhāro avijjāya? ‘pañca nīvaraṇā’ti ‘ssa vacanīyaṃ.	I say, bhikkhus, that ignorance has a nutriment; it is not without nutriment. And what is the nutriment for ignorance? It should be said: the five hindrances.
pañca’p’āhaṃ, bhikkhave, nīvaraṇe s’āhāre vadāmi, no anāhāre. ko c’āhāro pañcannaṃ nīvaraṇānaṃ? ‘tīṇi duccaritānī’ti ‘ssa vacanīyaṃ.	The five hindrances, too, I say, have a nutriment; they are not without nutriment. And what is the nutriment for the five hindrances? It should be said: the three kinds of misconduct.
tīṇi’p’āhaṃ, bhikkhave, duccaritāni s’āhārāni vadāmi, no anāhārāni. ko c’āhāro tiṇṇaṃ duccaritānaṃ? ‘indriy’āsaṃvaro’ti ‘ssa vacanīyaṃ. indriy’āsaṃvaram’p’āhaṃ, bhikkhave, s’āhāraṃ vadāmi, no anāhāraṃ. ko c’āhāro indriy’āsaṃvarassa? ‘asat’āsampajaññan’ti ‘ssa vacanīyaṃ. asat’āsampajaññam’p’āhaṃ, bhikkhave, s’āhāraṃ vadāmi, no anāhāraṃ. ko c’āhāro asat’āsampajaññassa? ‘ayoniso-manasi-kāro’ti ‘ssa vacanīyaṃ.	The three kinds of misconduct, too, I say, have a nutriment; they are not without nutriment. And what is the nutriment for the three kinds of misconduct? It should be said: non-restraint of the sense faculties. Non-restraint of the sense faculties, too, I say, has a nutriment; it is not without nutriment. And what is the nutriment for non-restraint of the sense faculties? It should be said: lack of awareness and clear comprehension. Lack of awareness and clear comprehension, too, I say, has a nutriment; it is not without nutriment. And what is the nutriment for lack of awareness and clear comprehension? It should be said: unwise attention.

ayoniso-manasi-kāram'p'āhaṃ, bhikkhave, s'āhāraṃ vadāmi, no anāhāraṃ. ko c'āhāro ayoniso-manasi-kārassa? 'assaddhiyan'ti 'ssa vacanīyaṃ. assaddhiyam'p'āhaṃ, bhikkhave, s'āhāraṃ vadāmi, no anāhāraṃ. ko c'āhāro assaddhiyassa? 'asaddhamma-ssavanan'ti 'ssa vacanīyaṃ. asaddhamma-ssavanam'p'āhaṃ, bhikkhave, s'āhāraṃ vadāmi, no anāhāraṃ. ko c'āhāro asaddhamma-ssavanassa? 'asappurisa-saṃsevo'ti 'ssa vacanīyaṃ.	Unwise attention, too, I say, has a nutriment; it is not without nutriment. And what is the nutriment for unwise attention? It should be said: lack of devotion. Lack of devotion, too, I say, has a nutriment; it is not without nutriment. And what is the nutriment for lack of devotion? It should be said: not hearing the good Dhamma. Not hearing the good Dhamma, too, I say, has a nutriment; it is not without nutriment. And what is the nutriment for not hearing the good Dhamma? It should be said: not associating with good persons.
iti kho, bhikkhave, asappurisa-saṃsevo paripūro, asaddhamma-ssavanaṃ paripūreti; asaddhamma-ssavanaṃ paripūraṃ, assaddhiyaṃ paripūreti; assaddhiyaṃ paripūraṃ, ayoniso-manasi-kāraṃ paripūreti; ayoniso-manasi-kāro paripūro, asat'āsampajaññaṃ paripūreti; asat'āsampajaññaṃ paripūraṃ, indriy'āsaṃvaraṃ paripūreti; indriy'āsaṃvaro paripūro, tīṇi duccaritāni paripūreti; tīṇi duccaritāni paripūrāni, pañca nīvaraṇe paripūrenti; pañca nīvaraṇā paripūrā, avijjaṃ paripūrenti. evam etissā avijjāya āhāro hoti, evañ ca pāripūri.	Thus not associating with good persons, becoming full, fills up not hearing the good Dhamma. Not hearing the good Dhamma, becoming full, fills up lack of devotion. Lack of devotion, becoming full, fills up unwise attention. Unwise attention, becoming full, fills up lack of awareness and clear comprehension. Lack of awareness and clear comprehension, becoming full, fills up non-restraint of the sense faculties. Non-restraint of the sense faculties, becoming full, fills up the three kinds of misconduct. The three kinds of misconduct, becoming full, fill up the five hindrances. The five hindrances, becoming full, fill up ignorance. Thus there is nutriment for ignorance, and in this way it becomes full.

pabbata-kandara-padara-sākhā-paripūrā kusobbhe paripūrenti; kusobbhā paripūrā mahā-sobbhe paripūrenti; mahā-sobbhā paripūrā kunnadiyo paripūrenti; kunnadiyo paripūrā mahā-nadiyo paripūrenti; mahā-nadiyo paripūrā mahā-samuddaṃ sāgaraṃ paripūrenti; evam etassa mahā-samuddassa sāgarassa āhāro hoti, evañ ca pāripūri.	and creeks; these, becoming full, fill up the pools; these, becoming full, fill up the lakes; these, becoming full, fill up the streams; these, becoming full, fill up the rivers; and these, becoming full, fill up the great ocean; thus there is nutriment for the great ocean, and in this way it becomes full.
evam evaṃ kho, bhikkhave, asappurisa-saṃsevo paripūro, asaddhamma-ssavanaṃ paripūreti; ... pe ... tīṇi duccaritāni paripūrāni, pañca nīvaraṇe paripūrenti; pañca nīvaraṇā paripūrā, avijjaṃ paripūrenti; evam etissā avijjāya āhāro hoti, evañ ca pāripūri.	So too, not associating with good persons, becoming full, fills up not hearing the good Dhamma…. The five hindrances, becoming full, fill up ignorance. Thus there is nutriment for ignorance, and in this way it becomes full.
vijjā-vimuttim'p'āhaṃ, bhikkhave, s'āhāraṃ vadāmi, no anāhāraṃ. ko c'āhāro vijjā-vimuttiyā? 'satta bojjhaṅgā'ti 'ssa vacanīyaṃ. satta'p'āhaṃ, bhikkhave, bojjhaṅge s'āhāre vadāmi, no anāhāre. ko c'āhāro sattannaṃ bojjhaṅgānaṃ? 'cattāro satipaṭṭhānā'ti 'ssa vacanīyaṃ.	I say, bhikkhus, that (1) true knowledge and liberation have a nutriment; they are not without nutriment. And what is the nutriment for true knowledge and liberation? It should be said: (2) the seven factors of enlightenment. The seven factors of enlightenment, too, I say, have a nutriment; they are not without nutriment. And what is the nutriment for the seven factors of enlightenment? It should be said: (3) the four establishments of awareness.
cattāro'p'āhaṃ, bhikkhave, satipaṭṭhāne s'āhāre vadāmi, no anāhāre. ko c'āhāro catunnaṃ satipaṭṭhānānaṃ? 'tīṇi sucaritānī'ti 'ssa vacanīyaṃ. tīṇi'p'āhaṃ, bhikkhave, sucaritāni s'āhārāni vadāmi, no anāhārāni.	The four establishments of awareness, too, I say, have a nutriment; they are not without nutriment. And what is the nutriment for the four establishments of awareness? It should be said: (4) the three kinds of good conduct. The three kinds of good conduct, too, I say, have a nutriment; they are not without nutriment.

ko c'āhāro tiṇṇaṃ sucaritānaṃ? 'indriya-saṃvaro'ti 'ssa vacanīyaṃ. indriya-saṃvaram'p'āhaṃ, bhikkhave, s'āhāraṃ vadāmi, no anāhāraṃ. ko c'āhāro indriya-saṃvarassa? 'sati-sampajaññan'ti 'ssa vacanīyaṃ.	And what is the nutriment for the three kinds of good conduct? It should be said: (5) restraint of the sense faculties. Restraint of the sense faculties, too, I say, has a nutriment; it is not without nutriment. And what is the nutriment for restraint of the sense faculties? It should be said: (6) awareness and clear comprehension.
sati-sampajaññam'p'āhaṃ, bhikkhave, s'āhāraṃ vadāmi, no anāhāraṃ. ko c'āhāro sati-sampajaññassa? 'yoniso-manasi-kāro'ti 'ssa vacanīyaṃ. yoniso-manasi-kāram'p'āhaṃ, bhikkhave, s'āhāraṃ vadāmi, no anāhāraṃ. ko c'āhāro yoniso-manasi-kārassa? 'saddhā'ti 'ssa vacanīyaṃ. saddham'p'āhaṃ, bhikkhave, s'āhāraṃ vadāmi, no anāhāraṃ. ko c'āhāro saddhāya? 'saddhamma-ssavanan'ti 'ssa vacanīyaṃ. saddhamma-ssavanam'p'āhaṃ, bhikkhave, s'āhāraṃ vadāmi, no anāhāraṃ. ko c'āhāro saddhamma-ssavanassa? 'sappurisa-saṃsevo'ti 'ssa vacanīyaṃ.	Awareness and clear comprehension, too, I say, have a nutriment; they are not without nutriment. And what is the nutriment for awareness and clear comprehension? It should be said: (7) wise attention. wise attention, too, I say, has a nutriment; it is not without nutriment. And what is the nutriment for wise attention? It should be said: (8) devotion. Devotion, too, I say, has a nutriment; it is not without nutriment. And what is the nutriment for devotion? It should be said: (9) hearing the good Dhamma. Hearing the good Dhamma, too, I say, has a nutriment; it is not without nutriment. And what is the nutriment for hearing the good Dhamma? It should be said: (10) associating with good persons.
iti kho, bhikkhave, sappurisa-saṃsevo paripūro, saddhamma-ssavanaṃ paripūreti; saddhamma-ssavanaṃ paripūraṃ, saddhaṃ paripūreti; saddhā paripūrā, yoniso-manasi-kāraṃ paripūreti; yoniso-manasi-kāro paripūro, sati-sampajaññaṃ paripūreti, sati-sampajaññaṃ paripūraṃ, indriya-saṃvaraṃ paripūreti; indriya-saṃvaro paripūro, tīṇi sucaritāni paripūreti; tīṇi sucaritāni paripūrāni, cattāro satipaṭṭhāne paripūrenti;	Thus associating with good persons, becoming full, fills up hearing the good Dhamma. Hearing the good Dhamma, becoming full, fills up devotion. Devotion, becoming full, fills up wise attention. Wise attention, becoming full, fills up awareness and clear comprehension. ... fill up restraint of the sense faculties. ... fills up the three kinds of good conduct. ... fill up the four establishments of awareness. ...

cattāro satipaṭṭhānā paripūrā, satta bojjhaṅge paripūrenti; satta bojjhaṅgā paripūrā, vijjā-vimuttiṃ paripūrenti; evam etissā vijjā-vimuttiyā āhāro hoti, evañ ca pāripūri.	fill up the seven factors of enlightenment. The seven factors of enlightenment, becoming full, fill up true knowledge and liberation. Thus there is nutriment for true knowledge and liberation, and in this way they become full.
seyyathāpi, bhikkhave, upari-pabbate thulla-phusitake deve vassante, taṃ udakaṃ yathā-ninnaṃ pavattamānaṃ pabbata-kandara-padara-sākhā paripūreti; pabbata-kandara-padara-sākhā-paripūrā kusobbhe paripūrenti; kusobbhā paripūrā mahā-sobbhe paripūrenti; mahā-sobbhā paripūrā kunnadiyo paripūrenti; kunnadiyo paripūrā mahā-nadiyo paripūrenti; mahā-nadiyo paripūrā mahā-samuddaṃ sāgaraṃ paripūrenti; evam etassa mahā-samuddassa sāgarassa āhāro hoti, evañ ca pāripūri. The Path and Its End

‘sabbe saṅkhārā aniccā’ti, yadā paññāya passati, atha nibbindati dukkhe; esa maggo visuddhiyā. Dhp 277	“All conditioned things are anicca” when one sees this with wisdom, one grows disenchanted with dukkha; this is the path to purification.
‘sabbe saṅkhārā dukkhā’ti, yadā paññāya passati, atha nibbindati dukkhe; esa maggo visuddhiyā. Dhp 278	“All conditioned things are dukkha” when one sees this with wisdom, one grows disenchanted with dukkha; this is the path to purification.
‘sabbe dhammā anattā’ti, yadā paññāya passati, atha nibbindati dukkhe; esa maggo visuddhiyā. Dhp 279	“All things are not-self” when one sees this with wisdom, one grows disenchanted with dukkha; this is the path to purification.
añña hi lābh’ūpanisā, añña nibbāna-gāminī. evam etaṃ abhiññāya, bhikkhu buddhassa sāvako, sakkāraṃ n’ābhinandeyya, vivekam anubrūhaye. Dhp 75	One is the pursuit of worldly gain, and quite another is [the path] leading to Nibbāna. Clearly understanding this, a bhikkhu, a disciple of the Buddha, should not seek delight in honors, but develop detachment instead.
suppabuddhaṃ pabujjhanti, sadā gotama-sāvakā. yesaṃ divā ca ratto ca, bhāvanāya rato mano. Dhp 301	Awake, always fully awake, the disciples of the Gotama, whose minds delight in cultivation both by day and by night.

suppabuddhaṃ pabujjhanti, sadā gotama-sāvakā. yesaṃ divā ca ratto ca, niccaṃ kāya-gatā sati. Dhp 299	Awake, always fully awake, the disciples of Gotama, whose awareness is constantly directed to the body, both by day and by night.
khantī paramaṃ tapo titikkhā. nibbānaṃ paramaṃ vadanti buddhā. na hi pabbajito par'ūpaghātī, na samaṇo hoti paraṃ viheṭhayanto. Dhp 184	Patience and endurance are the highest spiritual practices. Nibbāna is supreme, say the Buddhas. One who harms others is not a true monk, nor is one who oppresses others a true renunciate.
na sīlabbata-mattena, bāhu-saccena vā pana, atha vā samādhi-lābhena, vivitta-sayanena vā. "phusāmi nekkhamma-sukhaṃ, aputhujjana-sevitaṃ." bhikkhu, vissāsa' mā'pādi, appatto āsava-kkhayaṃ. Dhp 271-272	Not by mere vows or observing sīla, not by great learning, nor by the attainment of samādhi, nor by dwelling in secluded places, [not because it occurs to you,] 'I experience the happiness of renunciation, inaccessible to ordinary people.' Should you, O Bhikkhu, rest content, so long as the destruction of āsavas is not attained.

kathaṃ bhāvitā ca, bhikkhave, cattāro satipaṭṭhānā kathaṃ bahulī-katā, satta bojjhaṅge paripūrenti? yasmiṃ samaye, bhikkhave, bhikkhu kāye kāy’ānupassī (vedanāsu vedan’ānupassī... citte citt’ānupassī... dhammesu dhamm’ānupassī) viharati, ātāpī, sampajāno, satimā, vineyya loke abhijjhā-domanassaṃ, upaṭṭhitā’ssa tasmiṃ samaye sati hoti asammuṭṭhā.	And how, bhikkhus, do the four establishments of awareness, developed and cultivated, fulfil the seven enlightenment factors? Bhikkhus, on whatever occasion a bhikkhu dwells observing the body as body (mind as mind... vedanā as vedanā... phenomena as phenomena), ardent, clearly comprehending, and aware, having removed craving and aversion in regard to the world—on that occasion unremitting awareness is established in him.
yasmiṃ samaye, bhikkhave, bhikkhuno upaṭṭhitā sati hoti asammuṭṭhā, sati-sambojjhaṅgo tasmiṃ samaye bhikkhuno āraddho hoti. sati-sambojjhaṅgaṃ tasmiṃ samaye bhikkhu bhāveti, sati-sambojjhaṅgo tasmiṃ samaye bhikkhuno bhāvanā-pāripūriṃ gacchati.	On whatever occasion unremitting awareness is established in a bhikkhu—on that occasion the awareness enlightenment factor is aroused in him, and he develops it, and by development, it comes to fulfilment in him.
so tathā-sato viharanto taṃ dhammaṃ paññāya pavicinati, pavicayati, parivīmaṃsaṃ āpajjati.	Abiding thus aware, he investigates and examines that dhamma with wisdom, and engages in a full exploration of it.

yasmiṃ samaye, bhikkhave, bhikkhu tathā-sato viharanto taṃ dhammaṃ paññāya pavicinati, pavicayati, parivīmaṃsaṃ āpajjati,	On whatever occasion, abiding thus aware, a bhikkhu investigates and examines that dhamma with wisdom, and engages in a full exploration of it—dhamma-vicaya-sambojjhaṅgo tasmiṃ samaye bhikkhuno āraddho hoti, dhamma-vicaya-sambojjhaṅgaṃ tasmiṃ samaye bhikkhu bhāveti, dhamma-vicaya-sambojjhaṅgo tasmiṃ samaye bhikkhuno bhāvanā-pāripūriṃ gacchati.	on that occasion the investigation of reality enlightenment factor is aroused in him, and he develops it, and by development it comes to fulfilment in him.
tassa taṃ dhammaṃ paññāya pavicinato, pavicayato, parivīmaṃsaṃ āpajjato, āraddhaṃ hoti vīriyaṃ asallīnaṃ. yasmiṃ samaye, bhikkhave, bhikkhuno taṃ dhammaṃ paññāya pavicinato, pavicayato, parivīmaṃsaṃ āpajjato, āraddhaṃ hoti vīriyaṃ asallīnaṃ, vīriya-sambojjhaṅgo tasmiṃ samaye bhikkhuno āraddho hoti, vīriya-sambojjhaṅgaṃ tasmiṃ samaye bhikkhu bhāveti, vīriya-sambojjhaṅgo tasmiṃ samaye bhikkhuno bhāvanā-pāripūriṃ gacchati.	In one who investigates and examines that dhamma with wisdom and embarks upon a full inquiry into it, tireless energy is aroused. On whatever occasion tireless energy is aroused in a bhikkhu who investigates and examines that dhamma with wisdom and embarks upon a full inquiry into it— on that occasion the energy enlightenment factor is aroused in him, and he develops it, and by development it comes to fulfilment in him.
āraddha-vīriyassa uppajjati pīti nirāmisā. yasmiṃ samaye, bhikkhave, bhikkhuno āraddha-vīriyassa uppajjati pīti nirāmisā, pīti-sambojjhaṅgo tasmiṃ samaye bhikkhuno āraddho hoti, pīti-sambojjhaṅgaṃ tasmiṃ samaye bhikkhu bhāveti, pīti-sambojjhaṅgo tasmiṃ samaye bhikkhuno bhāvanā-pāripūriṃ gacchati.	In one who has aroused energy, unworldly rapture arises. On whatever occasion unworldly rapture arises in a bhikkhu who has aroused energy— on that occasion the rapture enlightenment factor is aroused in him, and he develops it, and by development it comes to fulfilment in him.
pīti-manassa kāyo'pi passambhati, cittam'pi passambhati. yasmiṃ samaye, bhikkhave, bhikkhuno pīti-manassa kāyo'pi passambhati, cittam'pi passambhati, passaddhi-sambojjhaṅgo tasmiṃ samaye bhikkhuno āraddho hoti, passaddhi-sambojjhaṅgaṃ tasmiṃ samaye bhikkhu bhāveti,	For one with a rapturous mind, the body and the mind become tranquil. On whatever occasion the body and the mind become tranquil in a bhikkhu with a rapturous mind—on that occasion the tranquillity enlightenment factor is aroused in him, and he develops it,

passaddha-kāyassa sukhino, cittaṃ samādhiyati. yasmiṃ samaye, bhikkhave, bhikkhuno passaddha-kāyassa sukhino cittaṃ samādhiyati, samādhi-sambojjhaṅgo tasmiṃ samaye bhikkhuno āraddho hoti, samādhi-sambojjhaṅgaṃ tasmiṃ samaye bhikkhu bhāveti, samādhi-sambojjhaṅgo tasmiṃ samaye bhikkhuno bhāvanā-pāripūriṃ gacchati.	In one whose body is tranquil and who feels pleasure, the mind becomes concentrated. On whatever occasion the mind becomes concentrated in a bhikkhu whose body is tranquil and who feels pleasure—on that occasion the concentration enlightenment factor is aroused in him, and he develops it, and by development it comes to fulfilment in him.
so tathā-samāhitaṃ cittaṃ sādhukaṃ ajjhupekkhitā hoti. yasmiṃ samaye, bhikkhave, bhikkhu tathā-samāhitaṃ cittaṃ sādhukaṃ ajjhupekkhitā hoti, upekkhā-sambojjhaṅgo tasmiṃ samaye bhikkhuno āraddho hoti, upekkhā-sambojjhaṅgaṃ tasmiṃ samaye bhikkhu bhāveti, upekkhā-sambojjhaṅgo tasmiṃ samaye bhikkhuno bhāvanā-pāripūriṃ gacchati. [...]	He closely looks on with equanimity at the mind thus concentrated. On whatever occasion a bhikkhu closely looks on with equanimity at the mind thus concentrated— on that occasion the equanimity enlightenment factor is aroused in him, and he develops it, and by development it comes to fulfilment in him. [...]
evaṃ bhāvitā kho, bhikkhave, cattāro satipaṭṭhānā evaṃ bahulī-katā satta sambojjhaṅge paripūrenti.”	Bhikkhus, that is how the four establishments of awareness, developed and cultivated, fulfil the seven enlightenment factors.”

jentātherīgāthā (Thig 21)

Verse of the Elder Bhikkhunī Jentā

“ye ime satta bojjhaṅgā, maggā nibbāna-pattiyā. bhāvitā te mayā sabbe, yathā buddhena desitā.”	“These seven factors of enlightenment are the path to attaining nibbāna. They are all developed by me, just as taught by the Buddha.”

Gradual Training

“n’āhaṃ, bhikkhave, ādikeneva aññ’ārādhanaṃ vadāmi; api ca, bhikkhave, anupubba-sikkhā, anupubba-kiriyā, anupubba-paṭipadā, aññ’ārādhanā hoti. kathañ ca, bhikkhave, anupubba-sikkhā, anupubba-kiriyā, anupubba-paṭipadā aññ’ārādhanā hoti?	“Bhikkhus, I do not say that final knowledge is achieved all at once. On the contrary, final knowledge is achieved by gradual training, by gradual practice, by gradual progress. And how is final knowledge achieved by gradual training, gradual practice, gradual progress?
idha, bhikkhave, saddhā-jāto upasaṅkamati; upasaṅkamanto, payirupāsati; payirupāsanto, sotaṃ odahati; ohitasoto dhammaṃ suṇāti; sutvā, dhammaṃ dhāreti; dhatānaṃ dhammānaṃ atthaṃ upaparikkhati; atthaṃ upaparikkhato, dhammā nijjhānaṃ khamanti; dhamma-nijjhāna-kkhantiyā sati, chando jāyati; chanda-jāto ussahati, ussāhetvā, tuleti; tulayitvā, padahati; pahitatto samāno, kāyena ceva parama-saccaṃ sacchikaroti, paññāya ca naṃ ativijjha passati.”	Here, one who has faith [in a teacher] visits him; when he visits him, he pays respect to him; when he pays respect to him, he gives ear; one who gives ear hears the Dhamma; having heard the Dhamma, he memorises it; he examines the meaning of the teachings he has memorised; when he examines their meaning, he gains a reflective acceptance of those teachings; when he has gained a reflective acceptance of those teachings, zeal springs up in him; when zeal has sprung up, he applies his will; having applied his will, he scrutinises; having scrutinised, he strives; resolutely striving, he realises with the body the supreme truth, and sees it by penetrating it with wisdom.”

The Unconditioned

“asaṅkhatañ ca vo, bhikkhave, desessāmi, asaṅkhata-gāmiñ ca maggaṃ. taṃ suṇātha. katamañ ca, bhikkhave, asaṅkhataṃ? yo, bhikkhave, rāga-kkhayo, dosa-kkhayo, moha-kkhayo: idaṃ vuccati, bhikkhave, asaṅkhataṃ.	“Bhikkhus, I will teach you the unconditioned and the path leading to the unconditioned. Listen to that. And what, bhikkhus, is the unconditioned? The destruction of craving, the destruction of aversion, the destruction of delusion: this is called the unconditioned.

katamo ca, bhikkhave, asaṅkhata-gāmi-maggo? idha, bhikkhave, bhikkhu anuppannānaṃ pāpakānaṃ akusalānaṃ dhammānaṃ anuppādāya chandaṃ janeti; vāyamati, vīriyaṃ ārabhati, cittaṃ paggaṇhāti, padahati. He generates desire for the continuance of arisen wholesome states, for their nondecay, increase, expansion, and fulfilment by development; he makes an effort, arouses energy, applies his mind, and strives: this is called the path leading to the unconditioned.
iti kho, bhikkhave, desitaṃ vo mayā asaṅkhataṃ, desito asaṅkhata-gāmi-maggo. yaṃ, bhikkhave, satthārā karaṇīyaṃ sāvakānaṃ hit'esinā anukampakena anukampaṃ upādāya, kataṃ vo taṃ mayā.	Thus, bhikkhus, I have taught you the unconditioned and the path leading to the unconditioned. Whatever should be done, bhikkhus, by a compassionate teacher out of compassion for his disciples, desiring their welfare, that I have done for you.
etāni, bhikkhave, rukkha-mūlāni, etāni suñ'āgārāni. jhāyatha, bhikkhave, mā pamād'attha; mā pacchā vippaṭisārino ahuvattha. ayaṃ vo amhākaṃ anusāsanī"ti.	These are the feet of trees, bhikkhus, these are empty huts. Meditate, bhikkhus, do not be negligent, lest you regret it later. This is our instruction to you."

Relaxed Effort

“taṃ kiṃ maññasi, soṇa, kusalo tvaṃ pubbe agāriya-bhūto vīṇāya tanti-ssare”ti? “evaṃ, bhante.”	“Tell me, Soṇa, in the past, when you lived at home, weren’t you skilled at the lute?” “Yes, venerable sir.”

DN 16	"Then the Blessed One addressed the bhikkhus thus: "Now I address you, bhikkhus: conditioned things are of the nature to vanish; strive without heedlessness to attain [the goal]." This was the last statement of the Tathāgata."

mettābhāvanā

The Cultivation of mettā

mettā-vihārī yo bhikkhu, pasanno buddha-sāsane, adhigacche padaṃ santaṃ, saṅkhār'ūpasamaṃ sukhaṃ. Dhp 368	The bhikkhu who abides in mettā, and has confidence in the teachings of the Buddha, would attain the peaceful state, the happiness of the stilling of conditioned things.
na hi verena verāni, sammant'īdha kudācanaṃ; averena ca sammanti, esa dhammo sanantano. Dhp 5	It is not by hatred that hatred is ever settled in this world. By kindness hatred is settled. This is an eternal law.
susukhaṃ vata jīvāma, verinesu averino; verinesu manussesu, viharāma averino. Dhp 197	So very happily we live, kind among the hostile; among hostile people, we live kindly.

"tasmātiha, bhikkhave, evaṃ sikkhitabbaṃ: 'mettā no ceto-vimutti bhāvitā bhavissati bahulī-katā, yānī-katā, vatthu-katā, anuṭṭhitā, paricitā, susamāraddhā'ti. evañ hi vo, bhikkhave, sikkhitabban"ti. SN 20.3	"Therefore, bhikkhus, you should train yourselves thus: 'We will develop and cultivate the liberation of mind by mettā, make it our vehicle, make it our basis, stabilize it, exercise ourselves in it, and fully undertake it.' Thus should you train yourselves."

mettāsahagatena cetasā

With a Mind Suffused with mettā

“etha, tumhe, bhikkhave, mettā-sahagatena cetasā ekaṃ disaṃ pharitvā viharatha, tathā dutiyaṃ, tathā tatiyaṃ, tathā catutthaṃ. iti uddham, adho, tiriyaṃ, sabbadhi, sabb’attatāya, sabbāvantaṃ lokaṃ mettā-sahagatena cetasā vipulena, maha-ggatena, appamāṇena, averena, abyābajjhena, pharitvā viharatha.” MN 50	“Come, bhikkhus, dwell pervading one quarter with a mind suffused with mettā, likewise the second quarter, the third quarter, and the fourth quarter. Thus above, below, across, and everywhere, and to all as to oneself, dwell pervading the entire world with a mind suffused with mettā, vast, exalted, boundless, without hostility, without ill-will.”

khīrodakībhūtā (MN 31 - excerpt)

Blending Like Milk and Water

“… te’pi kho āyasmanto bhagavantaṃ abhivādetvā ekam antaṃ nisīdiṃsu. ekam antaṃ nisinnaṃ kho āyasmantaṃ anuruddhaṃ bhagavā etad avoca:	“… Then those three venerable ones paid homage to the Blessed One and sat down at one side. When they were seated, the Blessed One said to them:
“kacci vo, anuruddhā, khamanīyaṃ, kacci yāpanīyaṃ, kacci piṇḍakena na kilamathā”ti? “khamanīyaṃ, bhagavā, yāpanīyaṃ, bhagavā, na ca mayaṃ, bhante, piṇḍakena kilamāmā”ti.	“I hope you are all keeping well, Anuruddha, I hope you are all comfortable, I hope you are not having any trouble getting almsfood.” “We are keeping well, Blessed One, we are comfortable, and we are not having any trouble getting almsfood.”
“kacci pana vo, anuruddhā, samaggā, sammodamānā, avivadamānā, khīr’odakī-bhūtā, añña añña piya-cakkhūhi sampassantā viharathā”ti? “taggha mayaṃ, bhante, samaggā, sammodamānā, avivadamānā, khīr’odakī-bhūtā, añña añña piya-cakkhūhi sampassantā viharāmā”ti.	“I hope, Anuruddha, that you are all living in harmony, with mutual appreciation, without disputing, blending like milk and water, viewing each other with kindly eyes.” “Surely, venerable sir, we are living in harmony, with mutual appreciation, without disputing, blending like milk and water, viewing each other with kindly eyes.”

“yathā kathaṃ pana tumhe, anuruddhā, samaggā, sammodamānā, avivadamānā, khīr’odakī-bhūtā, añña m añña ṃ piya-cakkhūhi sampassantā viharathā”ti? “idha mayhaṃ, bhante, evaṃ hoti: ‘lābhā vata me, suladdhaṃ vata me, yo’haṃ eva’rūpehi sabrahma-cārīhi saddhiṃ viharāmī’ti. tassa mayhaṃ, bhante, imesu āyasmantesu mettaṃ kāya-kammaṃ paccupaṭṭhitaṃ āvi c’eva raho ca; mettaṃ vacī-kammaṃ paccupaṭṭhitaṃ āvi c’eva raho ca; mettaṃ mano-kammaṃ paccupaṭṭhitaṃ āvi c’eva raho ca.	“But, Anuruddha, how do you live thus?” “Venerable sir, as to that, I think thus: ‘It is a gain for me, it is a great gain for me, that I am living with such companions in the spiritual life.’ I maintain bodily acts of mettā towards those venerable ones both openly and privately; I maintain verbal acts of mettā towards them both openly and privately; I maintain mental acts of mettā towards them both openly and privately.
tassa mayhaṃ, bhante, evaṃ hoti: ‘yaṃ nūn’āhaṃ sakaṃ cittaṃ nikkhipitvā, imesaṃyeva āyasmantānaṃ cittassa vasena vatteyyan’ti? so kho ahaṃ, bhante, sakaṃ cittaṃ nikkhipitvā, imesaṃyeva āyasmantānaṃ cittassa vasena vattāmi. nānā hi kho no, bhante, kāyā, ekañ ca pana mañña cittan”ti.	I consider: ‘Why should I not set aside what I wish to do and go along with what these venerable ones wish to do?’ Then I set aside what I wish to do and go along with what these venerable ones wish to do. We are different in body, venerable sir, but as if one in mind.”
āyasmā’pi kho nandiyo ... pe ... āyasmā’pi kho kimbilo ... pe ... nānā hi kho no, bhante, kāyā, ekañ ca pana mañña cittan”ti.	The venerable Nandiya and the venerable Kimbila each spoke likewise, [adding]:
“evaṃ kho mayaṃ, bhante, samaggā, sammodamānā, avivadamānā, khīr’odakī-bhūtā, añña m añña ṃ piya-cakkhūhi sampassantā viharāmā”ti. “sādhu sādhu, anuruddhā!”	“That is how, venerable sir, we are living in harmony, with mutual appreciation, without disputing, blending like milk and water, viewing each other with kindly eyes.” “Good, good, Anuruddha!”

Snakes

ekaṃ samayaṃ bhagavā sāvatthiyaṃ viharati jeta-vane, anāthapiṇḍikassa ārāme. tena kho pana samayena sāvatthiyaṃ aññataro bhikkhu ahinā daṭṭho kālaṅ-kato hoti.	On one occasion the Blessed One was dwelling at Sāvatthī in Jeta's Grove, Anāthapiṇḍika's Park. Now on that occasion, in Sāvatthī, a certain bhikkhu had been bitten by a snake and had died.
atha kho sambahulā bhikkhū yena bhagavā ten'upasaṅkamiṃsu; upasaṅkamitvā, bhagavantaṃ abhivādetvā, ekam antaṃ nisīdiṃsu. ekam antaṃ nisinnā kho, te bhikkhū bhagavantaṃ etad avocuṃ: "idha, bhante, sāvatthiyaṃ, aññataro bhikkhu ahinā daṭṭho kālaṅ-kato"ti.	Then a number of bhikkhus approached the Blessed One, paid homage to him, sat down to one side, and said: "Bhante, a certain bhikkhu here in Sāvatthī was bitten by a snake and died."
"na ha nūna so, bhikkhave, bhikkhu cattāri ahi-rāja-kulāni mettena cittena phari. sace hi so, bhikkhave, bhikkhu cattāri ahi-rāja-kulāni mettena cittena phareyya, na hi so, bhikkhave, bhikkhu ahinā daṭṭho kālaṅ-kareyya.	[The Buddha:] "Surely, bhikkhus, that bhikkhu did not pervade the four royal families of snakes with a mind of mettā. For if he had done so, he would not have been bitten by a snake and died.
katamāni cattāri? virūpakkhaṃ ahi-rāja-kulaṃ, erāpathaṃ ahi-rāja-kulaṃ, chabyāputtaṃ ahi-rāja-kulaṃ, kaṇhāgotamakaṃ ahi-rāja-kulaṃ. na ha nūna so, bhikkhave, bhikkhu imāni cattāri ahi-rāja-kulāni mettena cittena phari. sace hi so, bhikkhave, bhikkhu imāni cattāri ahi-rāja-kulāni mettena cittena phareyya, na hi so, bhikkhave, bhikkhu ahinā daṭṭho kālaṅ-kareyya.	What are the four? The virūpakkha royal family of snakes, the erāpatha royal family of snakes, the chabyāputta royal family of snakes, and the black gotamaka royal family of snakes. Surely, that bhikkhu did not pervade these four royal families of snakes with a mind of mettā. For if he had done so, he would not have been bitten by a snake and died.
anujānāmi, bhikkhave, imāni cattāri ahi-rāja-kulāni mettena cittena pharituṃ; atta-guttiyā, atta-rakkhāya, atta-parittāyā"ti.	I enjoin you, bhikkhus, to pervade these four royal families of snakes with a mind of mettā, for your own security, safety, and protection.

virūpakkhehi me mettaṃ, mettaṃ erāpathehi me. chabyāputtehi me mettaṃ, mettaṃ kaṇhāgotamakehi ca. apādakehi me mettaṃ, mettaṃ dvi-pādakehi me. catu-ppadehi me mettaṃ, mettaṃ bahu-ppadehi me.	I have mettā for the virūpakkha snakes; for the erāpatha snakes I have mettā. I have mettā for the chabyāputta snakes; for the black gotamakas I have mettā. I have mettā for footless creatures; for those with two feet I have mettā. I have mettā for those with four feet; for those with many feet I have mettā.
mā maṃ apādako hiṃsi, mā maṃ hiṃsi dvi-pādako. mā maṃ catu-ppado hiṃsi, mā maṃ hiṃsi bahu-ppado.	May footless beings not harm me; may no harm come to me from those with two feet; may four-footed beings not harm me; may no harm come to me from those with many feet.
sabbe sattā, sabbe pāṇā, sabbe bhūtā ca kevalā, sabbe bhadrāni passantu, mā kiñci pāpam āgamā.	May all beings, all living things, all creatures, every one, meet with good fortune; may nothing bad come to anyone.
appamāṇo buddho, appamāṇo dhammo, appamāṇo saṅgho, pamāṇavantāni siriṃsapāni, ahi-vicchikā, sata-padī, uṇṇanābhī, sarabū, mūsikā.	The Buddha is measureless, the Dhamma is measureless, the Saṅgha is measureless; creeping things, snakes, scorpions, centipedes, spiders, lizards, and rats are finite.
katā me rakkhā, katā me parittā, paṭikkamantu bhūtāni. so'haṃ namo bhagavato, namo sattannaṃ sammā-sambuddhānan"ti.	I have made a safeguard, I have made protection. Let the creatures retreat. I pay homage to the Blessed One, homage to the seven Perfectly Enlightened Ones."

ratana sutta (KN 5.13 - excerpt)

The Gems

“yaṃ kiñci vittaṃ idha vā huraṃ vā, saggesu vā yaṃ ratanaṃ paṇītaṃ, na no samaṃ atthi tathāgatena; idam’pi buddhe ratanaṃ paṇītaṃ; etena saccena suvatthi hotu. […]	“Whatever treasure exists here or beyond, or the sublime gem in the heavens, there is none equal to the Tathāgata. This too is the sublime gem in the Buddha: by this truth, may there be well-being!
varo, varaññū, varado, var’āharo, anuttaro dhamma-varaṃ adesayi. idam’pi buddhe ratanaṃ paṇītaṃ; etena saccena suvatthi hotu. […]	The excellent one, knower of the excellent, giver of the excellent, bringer of the excellent, the unsurpassed one taught the excellent Dhamma. This too is the sublime gem in the Buddha: by this truth, may there be well-being! […]
yān’īdha bhūtāni samāgatāni, bhummāni vā yāni va antalikkhe, tathā-gataṃ deva-manussa-pūjitaṃ, buddhaṃ namassāma; suvatthi hotu.	Whatever beings are gathered here, whether of the earth, or in the sky, we pay homage to the thus-gone Buddha, venerated by devas and humans; may there be well-being!
yān’īdha bhūtāni samāgatāni, bhummāni vā yāni va antalikkhe, tathā-gataṃ deva-manussa-pūjitaṃ, dhammaṃ namassāma; suvatthi hotu.	Whatever beings are gathered here, whether of the earth, or in the sky, we pay homage to the thus-gone Dhamma, venerated by devas and humans; may there be well-being!
yān’īdha bhūtāni samāgatāni, bhummāni vā yāni va antalikkhe, tathā-gataṃ deva-manussa-pūjitaṃ, saṅghaṃ namassāma; suvatthi hotu.”	Whatever beings are gathered here, whether of the earth, or in the sky, we pay homage to the thus-gone Saṅgha, venerated by devas and humans; may there be well-being!”

mettābhāvanā

ahaṃ avero homi; abyāpajjho homi; anīgho homi; sukhī attānaṃ pariharāmi.	May I be free of hatred; may I be free of ill-will; may I be free of misery; may I keep myself happy.
mātā-pitu-ācariya-ñāti-samūhā averā hontu; abyāpajjhā hontu; anīghā hontu; sukhī attānaṃ pariharantu. […]	May my mother, my father, my teachers, my relatives, and everyone be free of hatred; be free of ill-will; be free of misery; may they keep themselves happy. […]
sabbe sattā, sabbe pāṇā, sabbe bhūtā, sabbe puggalā, sabbe atta-bhāva-pariyāpannā,	May all beings, all living beings, all creatures, all individuals, all beings possessed of a sense of individuality, sabbā itthiyo, sabbe purisā, sabbe ariyā, sabbe anariyā, sabbe devā, sabbe manussā, sabbe vinipātikā, averā hontu; abyāpajjhā hontu; anīghā hontu; sukhī attānaṃ pariharantu. (Visuddhimagga)	all women, all men, all noble ones, all non-noble ones, all devas, all human beings, all those fallen into the lower realms, be free of hatred; be free of ill-will; be free of misery; may they keep themselves happy.

mettā sutta (KN 5.8 - excerpt)

Loving-Kindness

“sukhino‘va khemino hontu, sabbe sattā bhavantu sukhit’attā.	“May all beings be happy and secure; may they be inwardly happy!
ye keci pāṇa-bhūt’atthi, tasā vā thāvarā vā anavasesā, dīghā vā ye mahantā vā, majjhimā, rassakā, aṇuka-thūlā;	Whatever living beings there are whether frail or firm, without omission, those that are long or those that are large, middling, short, tiny or massive;
diṭṭhā vā ye vā adiṭṭhā, ye ca dūre vasanti avidūre, bhūtā vā sambhav’esī vā, sabbe sattā bhavantu sukhit’attā.”	whether they are seen or unseen, whether they dwell far or near, whether they have come to be or will come to be, may all beings be inwardly happy!“

saccakiriyā

Declaration of Truth

n’atthi me saraṇaṃ aññaṃ, buddho me saraṇaṃ varaṃ; etena sacca-vajjena, jayassu jaya-maṅgalaṃ.	I have no other refuge, The Buddha is my supreme refuge; by this proclamation of truth, may you gain victory and happiness.
n’atthi me saraṇaṃ aññaṃ, dhammo me saraṇaṃ varaṃ; etena sacca-vajjena, bhavatu te jaya-maṅgalaṃ.	I have no other refuge, The Dhamma is my supreme refuge; by this proclamation of truth, may victory and happiness be yours.
n’atthi me saraṇaṃ aññaṃ, saṅgho me saraṇaṃ varaṃ; etena sacca-vajjena, bhavatu sabba-maṅgalaṃ.	I have no other refuge, The Sangha is my supreme refuge; by this proclamation of truth, may all beings be happy.
